WOMAN'S VOTE IN NOVEMBER IN THE BALANCE

Act in Tennessee Today; Hope Fades

The North Carolina senate yesterday having killed any chance of ratifying the suffrage amendment in that state until November, the fate of the women's vote in the coming presidential election seemingly rests with Tennessee today. The case with which the "antis" in the lower house of the legislature passed a motion to adjourn indicates that suffrage success hangs by a thread.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 17.—Unexpected adjournment of the lower house of the Tennessee legislature today after three hours of debate prevented final action on the federal suffrage amendment.

Suffrage opponents moved for adjournment until tomorrow on the plea that members should have more time to deliberate. The house fairly seethed with excitement. Efforts to hold the body in session, however, were unavailing, and the motion carried, 53 to 44.

Opposition leaders said the vote was a virtually correct indication of sentiment on ratification. The suffragists declared no importance should be attached to it.

Final Vote Probably Today.

A final vote tomorrow was regarded as almost certain. The principal speeches were delivered today, and it was said other addresses would be brief.

Some members took exception to the presence of scores of opposing workers on the floor of the house. A motion that it be cleared brought a howl of protest.

Debate on the motion that the house concur in the action of the senate in ratifying the amendment centered largely on the contention that this legislature had no right to act on ratification, as a clause of the state constitution provides that a legislature, to pass on a proposed amendment, must have been elected prior to the submission of the amendment by congress.

Cite Ruling on Ohio Code.

Speakers opposing this view pointed to opinions attributed to W. L. Frierson, solicitor general of the United States, and Attorney General Thompson of Tennessee that a decision of the Supreme court holding void a clause in the Ohio constitution relating to ratification of federal amendments also nullified the clause in the Tennessee constitution.

In this connection Speaker Walker, opposition leader, read a letter from Mr. Frierson saying he had not advised any one that it would be "entirely proper for the present legislature to act."

"The question as to whether, having power to act, it can with propriety do so in view of the provisions of the Tennessee constitution," wrote Mr. Frierson, "is a wholly different question and one as to which I have expressed no opinion."

Argument Over Needed Votes.

A recent ruling by the state attorney general that a majority vote of the members present, if there was a quorum, and not the constitutional majority of fifty of the ninety-nine members of the house, would be sufficient for ratification or rejection of suffrage, entered into the discussion of possibilities today.

Should the suffragists poll a majority short of fifty votes, it was said by opposition leaders, Speaker Walker probably would rule that ratification had failed for lack of a constitutional majority, in which event a two-thirds majority would be needed to upset the speaker's decision.

From the result of polls on various motions today, however, it was fully expected that one side or the other would poll at least fifty votes on the original motion.

It's Up to Tennessee.

It was conceded by many suffragists that whether women of the nation would vote in November depended upon Tennessee.

Favorable action by Florida was said to be out of the question, and all efforts to persuade the governors of Vermont and Connecticut to call the legislatures of these states in special session have met with failure.

All Off in North Carolina.

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 17.—North Carolina was eliminated, at least temporarily, today from the fight for ratification of the federal woman suffrage

WINE, WOMEN, AND SONG ASSURE THIS PLAY A RUN

N.Y. Chorus Gives Real Stuff to Crowd.

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Arthur Hammerstein scored a novelty tonight at the opening of his show, "Tickle Me," at the Selwyn theater.

The show went along pleasantly for half the evening, with the audience enjoying Frank Tinney's jokes. In the middle of the second act there came a number by the chorus, led by Miss Marietta O'Brien.

The song was entitled "We've Got Something," and the girls went on to inform the audience they had something the less favored ones across the footlights would like to have. Then they produced cocktail glasses. The audience liked it; the glasses were empty, but they were properly colored, and the act was a hit.

Audience Perks Up.

Then the girls produced little flasks from which they pretended to drink. That was carrying the idea farther—and the audience still applauded.

But that wasn't the end. When the girls responded to an encore each carried a little basket.

They came down from the stage by steps to the aisles, still singing that they had "something" and began to hand little bottles to the audience. Souvenirs? But the printing on the little ounce bottles read "Compliments of Arthur Hammerstein. A tickle from 'Tickle Me., Carstairs whisky."

Smelling, Tasting, Believing.

Nobody believed it. Still, it smelled all right and a few decided to take a chance. They tasted it. More tasted it. Sentences began to go around the house. "By golly, it's the real stuff!" "It is!" "No?" "Taste it for yourself."

"O, Hammerstein wouldn't give out anything that would poison a man." "It sure is," etc., etc.

The girls got several encores. This went on until Miss O'Brien stepped out and said: "That's all there is; there isn't any more."

And so ended the act. Concerning tomorrow night's performance — Mr. Hammerstein made no promises.

Somebody's Always T. T. J. O. O. L.

James Shevlin, federal supervising prohibition agent, was informed of the incident. He said:

"I will hold Mr. Hammerstein strictly accountable for the distribution of the whisky. He had no right to have the whisky on the premises to begin with, unless he lived there. And he had no right to transport it, sell, or give it away. He has simply broken the law."

TOM MURRAY ILL; BLOOD TRANSFER LEADS TO RALLY

County Commissioner Tom Murray, who acquired fame by his "Meet Me Face to Face" advertisements when he was a clothing merchant, is critically ill in the county hospital. He collapsed yesterday near the Stratford hotel. The hotel house physician found he was suffering from an internal hemhorrage and sent him to the county hospital as an emergency case.

TOM MURRAY.

There Dr. Karl Meyer, Murray's personal friend, performed a blood transfusion operation in an effort to save the commissioner's life. A quart of blood was given by a hospital inmate. After the operation Mr. Murray rallied slightly.

'ACT OR PEOPLE WILL FIX RENT,' LOWDEN WARNS

Realty Men Told to Stop Boosts.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Gov. Lowden warned a committee of Chicago real estate men today that if they did not take steps to prevent excessive boosts in rents, real property in Chicago might be "impressed as a public utility."

"It is to the interest of you real estate men," he said, "more than any one else, that rent profiteering be stopped. And if it is not stopped the time will soon arrive when real property in cities will come under control of a commission, similar to the state utilities body."

Plea for Special Session.

The real estate men were accompanied by a number of aldermen and some tenants. The aldermen had come to plead for a special session of the general assembly to enact laws to curb the rent profiteer.

The governor gave it as his opinion that the rent profiteer cannot legally be reached under the present constitution, but he took the plea for a special session under consideration.

"The attorney general has been searching for the last two years for some remedy for this evil," said the governor. "He has looked in vain. Relief laws passed in other states are of doubtful constitutionality. No one wishes, I take it, that I call a special session of the legislature with no definite program to submit, and with the prospect that law, if passed, would soon after be held invalid.

Cressy Has Plan.

Assistant corporation counsel Morton S. Cressy differed with the governor. He said a valid law, giving the city council authority to name a commission, with powers similar to those of the public utilities commission, might be passed, which would meet the requirements.

Mr. Cressy promised to draft a proposal for such a law and forward it to the governor, who agreed to take it under consideration.

Opposes His Contention.

Attorney John L. Vette of the Chicago real estate board, denying Mr. Cressy's contention declared all legislative attempts, whether by means of a commission, or by the limitation of rents, would violate the constitutional right that property should not be taken without "due process of law." All anti-profiteering laws that have been acted on, he said, have been held unconstitutional.

Others Are Heard.

Addresses were also made by R. J. Patterson, president of the Wilson Avenue Tenants' association; A. E. Jessurun, secretary of the Wilson Avenue Tenants' association; Ald. Scott Hogan, James J. Carroll, and L. M. Smith of the Chicago real estate board.

The Chicago delegation, which returned home tonight, was composed of Ald. Robert J. Mulcahy, chairman of the special committee of the council; Ald. Scott, M. Hogan, Timothy A. Hogan, Max Adamowski, and James Dorney; J. A. Patterson, president, and J. Albert Erickson, vice president of the Rogers Park Tenants' Protective association; Albert E. Jessurun, secretary of the Wilson Avenue Tenants' association; former Judge R. E. Turney, Ivan O. Ackley, L. M. Smith, and James J. Carroll of the Chicago real estate board; Anton Stanemyer, A. J. Hayslett, George J. Kappes of the Cook county real estate board, Joseph Britton, representing the Chicago Association of Commerce, and John L. Vette, attorney for the Chicago rate board.

am becoming more and more convinced of the impracticability of running the other half of the world from this half."

TENANT DEMANDS, OWNER REFUSES, BOOST IN RENT!

When Policeman Dennis Condon of the West Chicago avenue station made out a lease in May for his tenant, J. W. Woodward, an employé of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, he made easy terms. Woodward lives on the first floor at 4714 West Van Buren street, under his landlord.

Yesterday Woodward suggested that his rent be raised $5 or $10.

Policeman Condon stared at Woodward.

"What's the matter—gone crazy?" he asked.

"No, everybody else around here is paying from $50 to $60 for poorer flats and I think you ought to get an even break," said Woodward.

"Well, when I made out your lease I figured on a fair profit and $40 is enough," responded the patrolman.

"Now listen, Dennis. I insist on paying at least $45," replied Woodward.

"If you want to break the lease and move I will rent it to some one else for $40 and no more," said Condon. "You gotta pay $40 and no more. If you try any rent raising above your lease price you'll have to move."

Woodward thought the matter over, then decided not to voluntarily increase his own rent.

$200,000 STOLEN BONDS' OWNERS TO LOSE NOTHING

Owners of the $200,000 bonds stolen in transit from Paine Webber & Co. of Milwaukee to its New York office will not lose a dollar, it was learned last night. In addition to being registered, the package of bonds was insured with the government for their full value.

Yesterday officials working on the case had traced the robbery to the New York postoffice, it was declared by federal authorities in Milwaukee.

A report was extant there that another package containing $500,000 in Liberty bonds, mailed the same day as the Paine-Webber securities, had likewise been lost in transit. This rumor originated in Milwaukee, but it was learned there later that it originated in an error, wherein a report that such a sum in bonds had been stolen in a period covering several months in New York was misunderstood and made over into the story of a new Milwaukee bond robbery.

CITY CAN'T PAY PRINTERS; VOTE LISTS PERILED

'No Money, No Work,' May Be Edict.

Failure of the city to pay its printing bills—some of which are more than a year old—has put the board of election commissioners in a pickle in connection with printing registration lists for the fall primary and election.

The thirty odd printers involved have not been paid for printing lists following the February and March registrations. The city owes them about $56,000. This amount will be doubled by the lists for Aug. 25, Oct. 2, and Oct. 12—the three fall registration days.

No Pay, No Work, Say Printers.

"At a recent meeting of printers who are creditors of the city they practically decided to do no more work until they are paid," said E. J. McCarthy, president of the Smith-McCarthy Typesetting company and president of the International Trade Composition association.

"I have certified the vouchers for these bills to the city controller," said James F. Sullivan, chief clerk of the election board. "The vouchers have been signed by the county judge. There is no question that the money is due.

"I have made repeated requests that the bills be paid, but have always been told that the city hasn't the money to meet them. We may have trouble in getting out the fall lists."

Won't Bid on Booths.

Chief Clerk Sullivan recently asked for bids on a contract to supply curtains for election booths. Only one firm submitted a bid. Others declared they did not want to do business with a corporation which could make no definite promise as to when it would meet its bills, Mr. Sullivan said.

Radio Guided Bombing Planes to Guard France

The writer declares the latest experiments of the French aviation service have proved that five or six small and inexpensive bomb planes without pilot or mechanic can be successfully guided by a "shepherd" in a larger plane through means of hertzian waves.

GET OUT, FRANCE TELLS OFFICIALS OF BRITISH LABOR

PARIS, Aug. 17.—William Adamson, labor member of the British parliament, and Harry Gosling, leader of the English transport workers, representing the council of action of the British Labor party, left for London tonight after conferences with the General Labor Federation of France and executives of the Unified Socialist party. They came to Paris for the purpose this morning, but soon after their arrival were requested to leave. Failure to comply with the request, it was announced, would call for their expulsion.

Before their departure the labor men declared they had accomplished the task for which they came to Paris, and that they were satisfied with the agreement reached.

Pilsudski Tells of Big Successes

PARIS, Aug. 17.—The French foreign office tonight says Chief of State Pilsudski, commanding the Polish forces at Warsaw, claims important gains for his armies everywhere and announced Warsaw was saved. The Poles, the foreign office learns, have unleashed three counter offensives: the first against the Red cavalry menacing Graudenz and Danzig, the second against Russian positions north of Warsaw, and the third in the southerly sectors at Vladimir-Volhynsk and Tarnopol.

LATEST POLISH NEWS AS TOLD IN BULLETINS

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 17.—The Moscow Pravda warns the Russian soviet government to hurry its offensive against Gen. Wrangel in southern Russia, saying that otherwise the soviet government will lose the Don district with its great coal mines and also Caucasia.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—A dispatch to the London Times from Danzig dated Monday says it is reported that Sir Reginald T. Tower, high commissioner at Danzig under the league of nations, has issued an order that no ships with munitions for Poland shall be permitted to enter Danzig. Should such a ship arrive he will submit the whole matter to the council of ambassadors.

The dispatch adds that one ship from Antwerp already has been ordered to remain at sea.

WARSAW, Aug. 17.—"Reports of the formation of a secessionist government in Posen are absolutely unfounded," says an official statement issued today. "The Polish government remains in Warsaw. Certain services have been removed to Posen, but all the ministries continue to conduct their business in Warsaw."

SEIZE SOLDIER AS SUSPECT IN MOSS TRAGEDY

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 17.—The arrest of Private Lester Van Tassel in Madison, Wis., this afternoon ends a search conducted since June by Camp Grant and civil authorities. Van Tassel is wanted in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Leroy Moss, wife of Capt. Leroy Moss and daughter of Bion J. Arnold of Chicago, who was killed on the night of June 15 while riding in an automobile with her husband and friends near Camp Grant.

Van Tassel and a soldier named Peters escaped from the camp agricultural farm the morning of the night Mrs. Moss was killed. Peters was later apprehended in Wisconsin, but denied any connection with the shooting.

Van Tassel was apprehended at the home of his parents in Madison.

DRIVE ON SOUTH MENACES MAIN RUSSIAN ARMY

WARSAW, Aug. 17.—Having stopped the bolsheviks north of Warsaw, the Polish army took the initiative against the Reds in several important sectors.

Full development of the plan naturally cannot be forecast yet, but the government tonight authorized publication of a special bulletin announcing defeat of four bolshevik divisions in a drive northward on a line running from Garvolin to Zelechow along the line of the Wilga river under direct command of President Pilsudski.

Menace to Red Rear.

This line lies between thirty and forty miles southeast, and there has been no expectation that a Red movement in this territory could menace the capital, but the new offensive of the Poles spells possibly serious results for the Red forces now concentrated directly east of Warsaw.

On that front the bolsheviki repeatedly have attacked the defense line at Okuniew and have been repulsed each time. If the new Polish movement northward continues at the same speed as during the last twenty-four hours it will menace the Reds' rear. The same forces already had cut off Red units attempting to throw a bridge across the Vistula a little south of its junction with the Wilga and today's further advance has piled up the number of prisoners to a total which is large for this war.

On the Northern Front.

On the northern front the Poles continued to drive back the Russian Sixteenth army, which is said to be the best of the four armies hitting at Warsaw from the north and northwest. The Poles pushed it back several miles beyond Radzymin. They also forced the fighting north of Modlin (Nowogeorgievsk), recapturing Ciechanow.

West of Modlin it is reported that the Red cavalry reached the Vistula at several points, but a small group which recently crossed upon a captured river steamer was later cut off from this vessel by Polish guard units, and those who escaped did so by means of rowboats and skiffs with extreme difficulty.

A feeling of confidence is growing hourly in Warsaw and a tremendous improvement is noticeable in the public and military morale.

Reds at Standstill.

On the two main roads leading to the Polish capital the Reds came to a stop tonight. Before they can begin a new drive they must rebuild railroads and bridges and repair the roads behind the front, which is believed to be impossible before French assistance already under way can reach here.

Neither the appearance of a bolshevik airplane over Warsaw, which was driven off by shrapnel before any bombs were dropped, nor the news that the Reds were within seven miles of Thorn, where a big refugee camp is situated and a half million dollars' worth of relief supplies are stored, could discourage Warsaw after the city had heard the cheering reports from the crucial front.

When the Red commanders ordered 150 Chinese warriors to take the point of the column in a night attack in the direction of Nowogeorgievsk the mercenaries refused. Many were shot, but others escaped into the woods, where they were captured by Poles, to whom they told the story.

New bolshevik circulars dropped from airplanes say the soviets know Poland is starving and therefore the Red army is bringing plenty of food.

Polish sources charge 2,000 Communists and militaristic officers nightly cross the east Prussian frontier from Germany to join the Red army. They also assert Roumania prevents Hungarian volunteers for the Polish army from crossing its frontier.

Polish Premier Under Fire.

Transportation on the Warsaw front now includes all extremes. Premier Witos and several cabinet members made a trip to the front in an armored train which was fired upon. Two other ministers reached the front line by automobile, but as they returned they passed two officers who were joining their regiment in a one horse Warsaw droschky. Big double deck busses recently brought from Vienna to break a street car strike are now used to transport infantry.

Military authorities here now believe that the Reds will be forced to conclude peace soon because of inability to bring up sufficient men and materials to cope with the Poles and the anticipated French assistance.

SEES RADZYMIN RETAKEN

BY COL. HENRY J. REILLY.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1920: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WARSAW, Aug. 17.—Yesterday I saw the successful Polish attack upon Radzymin and Nowy wood, lost several days ago as the result of a surprise bolshevik attack. Where the outposts of the Warsaw bridgehead stop, a bolshevik force, infiltrated last night through the forest well to the rear of the line. The Polish attacked them, cutting them off, and causing them to surrender.

The distance from the Polish front line to Radzymin was three kilometers and to the woods two and a half kilometers across an open plain destitute of cover. The artillery was insufficient to lay down a rolling barrage, therefore the fire of heavy and light guns was placed on the edge of the wood and in the village during the infantry advance.

Use New Attack Method.

Instead of employing attack formations, familiar to Americans in the great war, the infantry advanced from the edge of the woods in line of squad-columns. At two kilometers from the enemy they deployed into successive lines of skirmishers, advancing by rushes and by creeping. When the Polish artillery fire was compelled to lift because of the proximity of its own infantry, enemy machine guns held up the advance until Polish tanks attacked them from the left. The advance was with spirit and order.

The bolshevik machine gun fire was reasonably heavy and well controlled. Cavalry and machine guns are the two principal sources of bolshevik strength. The machine guns are manned by old professional noncommissioned officers, who are well paid. The bolshevik artillery fire was comparatively slight and in this respect the Polish supremacy was considerable. There were no concentrations of fire on either side.

Poles Command Air.

Several Polish aviators flew at will over the battlefield, but no enemy aviators nor anti-aircraft artillery were employed. The roads and fields in the rear part of the battlefield were covered with horse transportation of all kinds standing in long columns faced toward the rear or parked. Except for an occasional staff car, no motor transportation was to be seen. Batteries were in the open not camouflaged. Reserves were resting in line columns, arms stacked, men lying on the ground. Staffs with maps and field glasses were standing in groups.

The lightly wounded straggled back to the dressing stations established in the open. The seriously wounded were carried on stretchers. Horse ambulances and a dummy suburban train carried them to Warsaw.

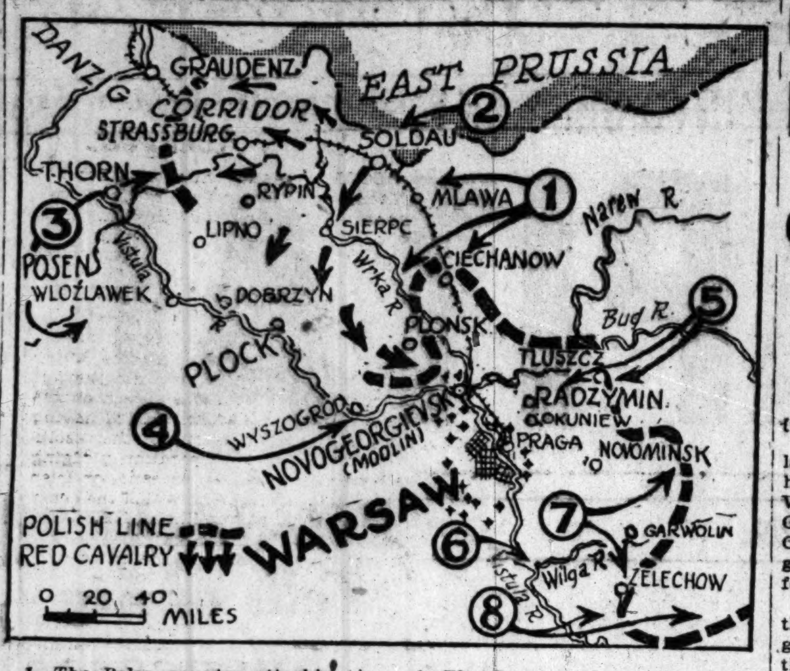
Wore Yankee Khaki.

The attacking troops wore American uniforms, except for caps, causing the dead and wounded lying around to recall American battlefields. Here and there were bunches of prisoners, well fed, reasonably clothed, without uniforms, and mostly young men and boys, who were passed to the rear under guard. All claimed service with Denikine.

The clear, beautiful day with a charming countryside, troops in plain sight, and the absence of shell torn ground, ruined splintered trees, clouds of dust, and shell smoke restored the romance of war.

The action was particularly important because it illustrates the fact that despite the long retreat the Polish troops could be relied on for successful attacks.

Brighter Days for Warsaw



1—The Poles, counter attacking in the direction of Mlawa, have retaken Crechanow and have cleared the Wrka river of Reds. This action relieves the pressure on Warsaw from the northwest.

2—The Russians have handed Soldau over to the former German burgomaster, and are pushing into the Danzig corridor toward Thorn and Grandenz. They are also between the Wrka and the Vistula and are attacking Novogeorgievsk.

3—The Poles have stopped the Russians when the latter were only twelve miles from Thorn. A detachment of Red cavalry has been cut off in Posen.

4—The Russians have been forced back from the Vistula crossings.

5—The Poles by a fierce counter attack have retaken Radzymin and Sluszcz.

6—The Reds were thrown back in trying to cross the Vistula at the mouth of the Wilga river.

7—An attack led by Gen. Pilsudski in person has developed from Zelechow and Gerwolen northward, aiming to turn the Russian line by the south flank.

8—The Poles have riddled the Russian line to the south, having found that it was thinly held.

SLAUGHTER OF REDS

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—The Russian northern frontal attack on Warsaw is failing amid bloody slaughter on both sides. The Russian 3d and 4th armies are bringing up their entire massed artillery, as well as the entire Caucasian cavalry corps.

Eugene Szatmary, THE TRIBUNE correspondent with the Russian army, telephoned this morning that Russian headquarters does not claim the capture of Praga, a suburb of Warsaw.

It has been learned that if the present attack collapses the Russians will continue an enormous cavalry encirclement movement in an effort to trap the whole Polish army.

Today the Red cavalry reached the outskirts of Grauden and Thorn.

A Polish soviet government has been formed at Bialystok and its members are en route to Warsaw and have reached Malkinia.

RETAKE THREE TOWNS

PARIS, Aug. 17.—Counter-attacking from Thorn, the Poles are driving against the bolshevik cavalry, which has been effecting a demonstration toward Graudenz and Danzig.

This Red cavalry, cut off from the main forces, is spreading terror among the villages of the Polish East Prussia frontier.

Captured documents reveal the Reds expected a German uprising to aid them throughout the Danzig corridor, but thus far they only have received passive and unimportant help from Germans.

The French foreign office learns Gen. Pilsudski, fighting with his back against the Vistula wall for Warsaw, scored important successes in the first day's fighting, capturing bolshevik elements which penetrated south of the Bug and in the angle between the Bug and the Narew.

The Poles claim they have captured Modlin (Novogeorgievsk), Radzymin, and Tluszcz.

Attacking Wladimir-Volhynsk and Tarnopol, the Poles discovered the Red lines were held by very light forces, the south front being stripped of every available soldier for the Warsaw attack. Pilsudski reports a deep advance in this sector.

REDS IN CONFUSION.

WARSAW, Aug. 17.—[1:00 a. m.]—[By the Associated Press.]—The Russian pressure upon Warsaw has been relieved, according to the official Polish communique just issued. The statement reported that Gen. Pilsudski directed the counter stroke that effected this relief.

In the fighting in the region of Radzymin, northeast of Warsaw, the Poles have taken many prisoners, including a bolshevik commissar and brigade commander. During the battle here a Polish chaplain of the 8th infantry division, Ignaqy Korupka, was killed while leading the attacking forces, clad in his church robes and with a crucifix in his hand.

WRANGEL ARMIES CAPTURE 32,000 REDS IN CRIMEA

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 13.—[Delayed.]—Official figures which reached here today from headquarters of the White army place the full strength of Gen. Wrangel's forces at 140,000 men. Of these 50,000 are fully equipped but guns and material are badly needed for the remaining 90,000.

The statement places the strength of the Red forces arrayed against Wrangel's men at 50,000 and declares that the soviets have 300,000 troops on the Polish front and a reserve force of about 100,000 men elsewhere.

Since the start of Gen. Wrangel's Crimea drive 32,000 prisoners, 150 field guns, 730 machine guns and seventeen armored automobiles have been captured at a loss of 15,000 killed, wounded or missing, the statement says.

It is reported that the Reds are organizing an army of 100,000 men at Azerbeidjan for services in Anatolia.

GIVES LAND TO PEASANTS.

SEBASTOPOL, Aug. 13.—[Delayed.]—[By the Associated Press.]—Gen. Wrangel's recognition by France and the announcement that a French diplomat would be sent here immediately caused great rejoicing in the south Russian army.

Wrangel's policy is actually giving the land to the peasants and promising that the government will stand between them and the old owners and will grant them "new papers." Gen. Wrangel is assuring the land owners that they will be paid eventually for the property.

As a guarantee of his good faith, the general's wife, Baroness Wrangel, went to her own estates in northern Crimea and personally supervised division of her land among the peasants.

BRITISH LABOR STILL WORKING FOR RED PEACE

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The council of action of the British Labor party, after a long discussion today, issued a new manifesto to the workers of Great Britain, declaring that the danger of war was not over. The manifesto asks: "Why does not the premier announce the terms on which England will make peace with Russia? Why is the position with regard to the adventurer Wrangel so ambiguous?"

The manifesto demands full peace, together with a resumption of trading with Russia.

Premier Lloyd George in a detailed reply to the request of Leo Kameneff of the Russian mission in London for an exact definition of Great Britain's attitude toward Wrangel, says that the British government never had the intention to detach the Crimea from Russia nor to encourage Wrangel in his offensive. The British government, adds the premier, is only concerned with insuring the safety of troops and refugees under Wrangel, who, Mr. Lloyd George says, has been warned that the British will decline all responsibility if he undertakes an intervention.

Mr. Lloyd George then explains that the British government would only feel bound to reconsider this attitude in event of the soviet proposing terms infringing upon the independence of Poland.

REDS IMPRISON YANKS TO FORCE U.S. RECOGNITION

More Cruel to Them than Other Aliens.

TERIJOKI, Finland, Russian Frontier, Aug. 9.—[By the Associated Press.]—Delayed.—A thousand foreigners, including thirty-five Americans, are now at Moscow hoping for action by their governments to get them out of Russia before winter sets in. They include, besides the Americans, 700 French, 10 British, and 100 Scandinavians.

Aside from the thirty-five, there are a large number claiming American citizenship who have gathered from all parts of Russia because of impossible living conditions and who are awaiting bolshevik permission to leave. They are the last of Russia's pre-war foreign resident population.

Inquiries by the Associated Press correspondent developed that many foreigners have been refugees in Moscow for more than a year. The Americans say their status is worse than that of the citizens of any other country. They are held virtually as hostages while the soviet tries to force the Washington government to negotiate officially with Moscow or the bolshevik agents.

Five Americans Known.

Five Americans are known to be imprisoned in Moscow. Among them are Dr. A. W. Stickney, geologist, and his wife, who recently arrived in Moscow from Siberia. The others are Royal C. Keeley, a man named Lamark, and a naturalized American Greek named Calimidianov, who has been imprisoned a year and a half charged with being a spy.

The prisoners are inaccessible and little is known of their condition. H. D. T. Reynolds, an American mining engineer, is not permitted to leave Semipalatinsk, Siberia, the bolsheviki demanding his services there.

Since the consular officers departed there has been no official method of negotiations with the bolsheviki. Individual appeals to the foreign office met with the reply that Americans would not be permitted to leave Russia until the American authorities would negotiate with the soviet leaders regarding the repatriation, probably involving terms of exchange for communists in the United States.

Don't Want Our Anarchists.

Anarchist deportees who already have arrived in Russia from America are declared not wanted.

Corporal Arthur Prince of Detroit, Mich., an American soldier recently released from Russian imprisonment, has given detailed information regarding the Americans in Moscow and has asked that something be done for their relief before winter.

Have to Wed Russian Girls.

Many unmarried foreigners leaving Russia are asked by Russians to execute the bolshevik civil marriage ceremony for the purpose of obtaining foreign citizenship and exit from the country for the native daughters.

The treatment accorded foreigners reflects any action abroad which is unfavorable to the bolshevik régime. July 24 fifty British subjects with permission to leave were taken off the train and are still held in Moscow. The bolsheviki had received information that Leonid Krassin, their minister of trade and commerce, had not been permitted to return to London.

U. S. WARY ABOUT HELPING POLAND; PURSE IS SHUT UP

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Following a long cabinet conference today over the disturbing Polish-Russian situation, it became evident that the United States is proceeding cautiously with whatever plans it may have to carry out its pledge of "all available means" of support to Poland.

Nothing definite was disclosed concerning the discussion at the conference nor the attitude of the president, who presided, but it was made quite apparent in official quarters that, unless unforeseen circumstances arise, the United States is not planning to make loans to Poland.

That this government already is doing something for Poland, officials insist to be the case, but they say that the time has not come for publication of facts concerning these things.

PRINCE OF 27, NOW COMRADE, RULES RED ARMY

60,000 Infantry, 30,000 Cavalry Against Danzig.

[Copyright: 1920: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WITH THE RUSSIAN TROOPS, Aug. 17.—The commander in chief of the Russian western army is a former prince, but is now known as plain Comrade Tuchaszewsky. During the great war, as an officer in the czar's army, he was captured and interned by the Austrians. He has just passed his twenty-seventh birthday and is one of the most ambitious of the soviet officers.

The directors of the Russian army lay particular stress on a thorough training and political instruction for the troops in each division.

"Duds" for Guns.

The infantry is poorly clothed, but their equipment is good. The artillery is good, but its efficiency is lessened by reason of the poor supply of ammunition.

Several Russian officers told me that preparations for this offensive were begun last February, when Sklenski, Trotzky's representative, sent out several members of the intelligence corps to investigate.

Plans for Drive.

On July 8 the order to attack was given, and each division knew in advance its objective. The first day they were to advance twenty-five miles. The break through the Polish lines succeeded as planned everywhere, except where the 8th division was held up by the Polish Posen division, which is composed of former German troops.

The Fourth Russian army, having Danzig corridor as its objective, was composed of three corps of Caucasian cavalry and eleven infantry divisions, or a total of 60,000 infantry troops and 30,000 mounted men.

Two Days' Work in One

As Viewed by Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip

"I have often preached to young men that if they are going to make a success of life, they have two days' work to do every day—one, the day's work they are paid for; the other, a day's work of preparation for something better and larger. That is what you are doing in these evening classes—putting in your second day's work in preparation for larger responsibilities, and I can predict success for you if you follow the course of study through, as a better preparation for the work to come."

From an address delivered by Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip to the students of the Northwestern University School of Commerce, April 2, 1920.

BRITAIN MAY QUIT EUROPE POLITICS FOR ISOLATION

Report Internal Affairs Will Occupy Its Time.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1920: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Great Britain is going to pull out of Europe. This is the determination of the government, I learn on the highest authority.

Within a few weeks the government proposes to cut loose from the mess of continental politics, according to this report.

It will see the Polish trouble through, and, if the Russians really try to destroy Polish nationality, it will help Poland in association with the other allies, but after that it is through.

This reported decision is said to be due to pressure of home affairs, Ireland, the labor situation, and other problems waiting to be dealt with which international complications have compelled the government to neglect, but which insistently are demanding settlement and will not wait. Also it is due to need for economy and a strong public demand for attention to the paying of debts and the reducing of taxation.

France to Climb Down.

At the same time I hear France is expected to climb down and to make an effort to restore the entente by a note which may be now on the way explaining it never meant to disagree with Great Britain in recognition of Gen. Wrangel and watering down its recognition.

Such a climb down doubtless would restore outwardly friendly relations, but I doubt if real cordiality quickly can be restored.

The British public is very tired of the recurring French crises, for which they blame French Chauvinism, recklessness, and selfishness. Great Britain is now determined to go its own way, to restore peace throughout Europe, including Russia, and reëstablish trade. The soviet government probably will be recognized within a month or six weeks and trade reopened sooner.

Prime Minister Lloyd George in answering Kameneff said that England had no intention whatsoever of recognizing Gen. Wrangel and will withdraw support from him as soon as he starts an offensive war. The only thing that can change the British attitude is imposition of impossible terms by Russia upon Poland, taking away that nation's independence.

Lloyd George on Vacation.

Mr. Lloyd George leaves London tomorrow for a holiday in Switzerland, during which he will do as little business as possible. He has arranged to meet Signor Giolitti, the Italian premier, but has not arranged to meet Premier Millerand. It is significant he is not taking a secretarial staff, so evidently it is a real holiday.

A leading politician said today:

"Now for three weeks' rest, then more work than ever. Look out for squalls when the old man returns."

The Irish situation has moved a step further toward settlement by the premier's statement in commons last night, when he recognized the Sinn Fein as the dominant power in Ireland. Much is hoped for from the Ulster split, which is reported developing, and the convention of the dominion rule faction in Dublin next week.

AT ODDS WITH PREMIER

DUBLIN, Aug. 17.—Disappointment is voiced in the press of Dublin today at the statement made by Premier Lloyd George in the house of commons yesterday relative to settlement of the Irish question.

The Freeman's Journal, which has advocated dominion home rule and which, under its present ownership, represents large business interests in Dublin, suggests as a reply to the premier a "financial and commercial boycott of that part of Ulster which is causing all the trouble," a reprisal which, it says, already is being enforced to some extent.

Baby Claimed by Two Women Goes to 'Grandma'

Two year old Catherine Walters was yesterday turned over to Mrs. Josephine H. Lawrence of the Cook county social service bureau by Mrs. Maude Goodhue of 4247 Kenmore avenue. Mrs. Goodhue was accused by Mrs. Clara Walters, 20 year old mother of Catherine, of holding the child until Mrs. Walters, now in the county jail, could raise $200 to pay for some jewelry stolen from Mrs. Goodhue.

The child will be taken to the home of its maternal grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Kroll of 2150 Kimball avenue, by Miss Margaret Murray.

Beauty's Shrine

A PHOTOGRAPHER, coming over from England, said he wanted to see if American women compared with the English for beauty. He can be enlightened easily. The loveliest examples of feminine beauty in the world are found in Chicago. For example, five of them are shown this morning.

There is Mrs. Harold C. Strotz, formerly Miss Eugenia Vandeveer, daughter of Mrs. Eudora G. Vandeveer of Taylorville. She became the bride of Mr. Strotz last June 16. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Strotz of Winnetka.

Next is Mrs. Wellesley H. Stillwell, who was Miss Courtney Letts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Letts of 1100 Lake Shore drive. She made her debut in Washington while her father was a dollar-a-year man. Mr. Stillwell is the son of Mrs. Homer L. Stillwell, 1200 Lake Shore drive. They were married Jan. 10 last.

Miss Mary Baker is the daughter of Alfred L. Baker, head of the Chicago brokerage firm of that name, who lives at 1130 Lake Shore drive and has a summer home at Lake Forest.

Miss Louise Hessert is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Hessert Jr. of 425 Arlington place.

Next is a Chicago girl whose beauty has gained her international distinction—Mrs. Ricardo di Soriano. She formerly was Miss Italia Blair, elder daughter of the late Chauncey J. Blair. Artists say she is one of the most radiant beauties Chicago ever had. Her husband is the son of the Marquis de Ivanrey of Madrid, Spain. They were married in Paris in July, 1907. She is now visiting with Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair at the Blair summer home at Sugar Hill, N. H.

All the photographs were taken by Wilfred E. Smith of the Lewis-Smith studio. He will demonstrate his methods next week at the national convention of Photographers of America in Milwaukee.

COLBY AIDS DENY LIST OF TERMS IN MEXICAN PAPER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Reports emanating from Mexico today that President Wilson was ready to recognize the De la Huerta government under conditions laid down in a proposal from Secretary of State Colby were vigorously and authoritatively denied here today.

Alleged Price of Recognition.

Mexico City, Aug. 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—President Wilson is ready to recognize the present Mexican government if the latter agrees with terms set forth in a proposal from Secretary of State Colby on this subject, according to a message sent to President de la Huerta by Fernando Calderon, Mexican high commissioner to the United States, now in the American capital, says the Excelsior today.

Secretary Colby's proposition, according to the newspaper, was:

First, that North American lives and property be respected:

Second, that indemnities be paid foreigners who suffered during the revolution.

Third, that Carranza decrees which are found to be confiscatory be derogated.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Divorced years ago because he was in the penitentiary, Henry Yutzy, who served nineteen of a ninety-nine year sentence, charged with participation in the assassination of Senator William Goebel, twenty-one years ago, was married to Miss Lillian Horner of Covington, Ky., today.

ITALIAN PRESS SAYS U. S. LEANS TOWARD FRANCE

ROME, Aug. 16.—The first editorial comment by newspapers here on the recent note to Italy from Secretary of State Colby, regarding the Russian situation, appeared today.

Tribuna says that, without recognizing Gen. Baron Wrangel, America "resolutely gravitates toward France," and adds it must not be forgotten that "besides the abstract, theological America represented by Wilson, another more real exists, of natural, enthusiastic, simple plutocracy which has nothing to do with the democratic policies of world conciliation."

The Idea Nazionale says:

"The energetic precise note unveiled those international political deceivers who preach the gospel of peace while waving the bloody sword over Europe's head."

The newspaper thinks the note greatly strengthens France's policy.

REDS FIGHTING FOR TRADE PATH INTO GERMANY

Envoy Kopp Reveals Desires in Berlin.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[By Special Cable.]
[Copyright: 1920: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—An absolute denial of rumors of a split between Lenin and Trotzky and that the bolshevist army was out of the control of the soviet and under domination of czarist officers, was given in an interview today by Wigdor Kopp, the unofficial Russian ambassador to Berlin. At the same time Comrade Kopp affirmed that it was only a question of the restoration of diplomatic relations before pre-war economic relations could be resumed with Germany.

The bolshevik talked plainly and quietly, but frankly, and without any attempt to evade questions or to introduce bolshevik views or propaganda. He is so immaculately attired that the English correspondents called him a "Bond street bolshevik."

Keep Czarists in Leash.

Replying to questions on the military situation, Comrade Kopp admitted that many excellent former czarist officers were drawing up the Russian strategic plans, but said the high generals remained within the general staff offices.

I then asked him about the Danzig corridor inasmuch as the bolsheviki had just slammed a door.

"To our viewpoint," he said, "there are really two corridors—one the entente created from Poland to the sea, the other we want from Russia to Germany. We will insist on direct communication from Russia to the Baltic, probably by way of Bialystok. Other corridors are questions between Poland and Germany, while Germany has not been consulted as yet.

Demands Direct Transport.

"We demand that Poland unconditionally give us the right to transport direct to and from Germany. We do not care to whom the coridor belongs as long as our trade with Germany is not hindered. Much depends on our future conomic relations with Germany, which will become normal as soon as diplomatic relations are agreed on."

Comrade Kopp was asked about the czarist officers of the Red army. He said they all were under the control of the soviets, while the youths leading the field forces all are trained in bolshevik ideas by education.

"So the talks of a military dicatorship are based on historic recollections of the French revolution."

BRITISH DEPORT MAYOR OF CORK; HE STILL FASTS

District Inspector Is Slain, Avenged.

CORK, Ireland, Aug. 17.—Terence MacSweeney, lord mayor of Cork, was deported to England this morning aboard a destroyer, after having been found guilty of sedition by court martial yesterday. MacSweeney still refused to eat.

MacSweeney, who has refused food since he was arrested last Thursday night, was convicted of having under his control the secret police cipher; of having made a seditious speech on the occasion of his election, and of having in his possession a copy of the resolution of the Cork corporation pledging allegiance to the Dail Eireann, or Irish republican parliament, which the court martial declared was likely to cause disaffection. The court martial was held under the defense of the realm act regulations.

District Inspector Slain.

DUBLIN, Aug. 17.—District Inspector Wilson was shot dead at Templemare last night while walking from the police barracks to his home, according to the message from Thurles.

District Inspector Avenged.

BELFAST, Ireland, Aug. 17.—The town of Templemare, County Tipperary, underwent a grim ordeal of reprisal last night, following the murder of District Inspector Wilson, according to a press dispatch received here today.

The police and military turned out to avenge Inspector Wilson and with bombs and bullets speedily cleared the streets. The town hall and several shops were wrecked. The disorders lasted several hours.

NATIONAL GUARD HUNT FOR 5,800 RECRUITS STARTS

Adjt. Gen. F. S. Dickson will begin recruiting today for the new national guard units to be organized in Illinois and federalized. He wants at least 5,800 men in Chicago.

Speaking in the 2d infantry armory last night at a meeting held under the auspices of the veteran corps of the old 2d infantry, he outlined the scope of the reorganization.

"There are to be nine infantry regiments, three light and one heavy artillery regiments, one cavalry regiment, one regiment of engineers, a field signal battalion, and sanitary and ammunition trains," he said.

"Four and a half regiments of infantry, one and a half regiment of light artillery, and the engineer regiment will be raised in Chicago. This city, however, will have no cavalry regiment, nor any heavy artillery units."

Capt. Lewis H. Simpson, commander of the veteran corps, presided at the meeting.

OUSTED BOSS OF WEST PARKS TO FIGHT FOR JOB

Refuses to Recognize Successor's Rights.

William W. Smith refuses to be fired as superintendent of employment of the west park board, and last night sent a letter to Gov. Lowden saying that as his resignation had been forced it was void.

The stand of Mr. Smith was made public after the board had been reorganized by the election of Franc E. Gardner and William H. Schmidt, as successors to Richard J. Powers and William Ganshow, former president and treasurer.

Wharton Given Job.

George C. Wharton, who was head of the publicity department of Gov. Lowden's campaign for the presidential nomination, was elected superintendent of employment at a salary of $4,800, the new board announced.

Mr. Smith indicates he will combat the election of Wharton. He claims his term does not expire until some time in 1925.

"I am informed that a statement has been sent to you that at a purported meeting of the board of west park commissioners, held on this day, the said board accepted the resignation of the undersigned as the superintendent of employment of said park board," he says in a statement sent to THE TRIBUNE.

Intends to Hold Job.

"I therefore beg to advise you that the said purported resignation was not voluntary, but, on the contrary, was forced over and in spite of my written protest that the said purported resignation is illegal and void and of no effect; that the undersigned is the duly appointed and acting superintendent of employment and secretary of the civil service board of the West Chicago park commissioners, and that my term of office does not expire until 1925, and that any other person claiming to have been appointed to said office at said meeting has no rights whatsoever in or to the same. The foregoing is respectfully submitted to refute the alleged appointment of George C. Wharton to said position."

NEW YORK HAS ANOTHER BROKEN SKULL MYSTERY

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Louis A. Cerf, an insurance agent, whose income is said to be $100,000 a year, was found in the Broad Street hospital tonight undergoing treatment for a fractured skull. When he failed to keep appointments with E. R. Stettinius and other bankers today a search started. Coincident with finding him in a hospital it was learned that Solomon Pincus, a jeweler, 1678 St. John's place, was detained on a charge of assault. A policeman makes the charge. Pincus says Cerf was jostled in a subway crowd and fell, hurting himself. Cerf does not remember what happened.

McGraw Seeks Indictment in John C. Slavin Injury

New York, Aug. 17.—John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, today demanded through counsel that he be indicted in order that he might establish before a competent tribunal his innocence of any participation in bringing about injuries to John C. Slavin, actor, who was found about a week ago unconscious in front of the McGraw home.

No improvement in the condition of Slavin is reported.

VOTE FOR WOMEN IN NOVEMBER IN BALANCE TODAY

amendment in time for the women to vote in November.

By a margain of 25 to 23 the state senate voted to postpone action on the amendment until the next regular session of the legislature in 1921.

The blow came as a complete surprise to suffrage proponents. They had no advance word of the opposition's plan of action, and the postponement resolution went through before they could move to block its adoption.

The fight in the senate may be renewed, tomorrow, however. Suffrage leaders said an attempt to reconsider the postponement resolution might be made.

In the meantime anti-suffrage forces prepared to take quick advantage of their victory. They planned to bring the ratification matter up under special order in the lower house tomorrow.

"Call it up and kill it right," was the way Representative Neal, anti-suffrage floor leader, described the plan.

Anti-suffragists marched from the old state house in victorious procession, shouting, "We'll beat it again in November."

Ask Cox to Help Battle.

Washington, D. C. Aug. 17.—Renewed efforts are being made by the Womans' party to get Gov. Cox to go to Nashville and take a personal hand in the fight for ratification of the federal suffrage amendment. Mrs. Abbie Scott Baker, political chairman of the Woman's party, who held a conference with Gov. Cox at Columbus today, reported that he was willing to start for Tennessee tonight.

"No Thought of Going."

Columbus, O., Aug. 17.—Asked tonight whether he would go to Nashville, to aid in the fight for ratification of the federal suffrage amendment, Gov. Cox stated that he had "no thought of doing so."

PONZI SAYS HE WAS ROBBED BY SLICK FORGERS

Boston, Mass., Aug. 17.—An intimation of the defense to be offered by Charles Ponzi, now in jail as the outcome of his financial dealings, was given today by his chief counsel, Daniel McIsaacs, who said that Ponzi had been swindled out of thousands of dollars through the forging and raising of his notes.

The attorney declared that notes for $100 in some cases had been raised to $1,000, and others accordingly. During the run on Ponzi's office, he said, the confusion and haste resulting from the large number of notes presented for payment prevented their being closely checked with the records.

At a hearing in the federal court today on petitions for receivership of the Securities Exchange company, of which Ponzi was the head, no opposition was voiced.

CHANGE LEAGUE, IF NEED APPEARS, COX DECLARES

He Wants Approval Given Quickly.

BY ROBERT B. SMITH.

Columbus, O., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Arraigning the Republican leadership with a vehemence seldom equaled by a presidential nominee, Gov. Cox tonight, before the Democratic state convention today, to establish himself as the leader of progressivism by reviewing his achievements as governor of Ohio and contrasting them with the record of Senator Harding, whom he denounced as the standard bearer of reaction.

Asserting that Senator Harding stood for "the monstrous proposal of a separate peace," Gov. Cox drew loud cheers from the convention by declaring:

"This dishonorable deed will not be perpetrated for two reasons: First, because Senator Harding will not get the chance, and, second, because I will not insult the 2,000,000 American soldiers who fought in this war by doing it myself.

"I promise you that we will enter the league of nations very soon after March 4, with a minimum of conversation. We will accept any additions that interpret the covenant. This is the greatest movement for righteousness in the history of the world."

Regrets Curb on Speech.

Gov. Cox regretted that propriety did not permit him to go further than to charge the Republicans with utterances "deliberate and willful untruths" in their attack on the peace treaty.

The governor's speech was, in a sense, an accounting to the convention of his three terms as governor of Ohio. He had worked for progress, he said, and Senator Harding led the forces of reaction. He charged Senator Harding with attempting to thwart the will of the people of Ohio when they rewrote the state constitution in 1913.

"An organization formed by moneyed interests was unable," he said, "to gain the support of newspapers, which refused to advocate the doctrine of resistance to express public opinion. I organized a paper of its own that had no paid circulation, but was a free paper, mailed to and distributed in the counties. It was published by Mr. Harding, the present reactionary candidate for president, and took the name of his own paper, the Ohio Star. At every bend of the road we found him aligned with the opposition.

Says Copies Vanish.

"That they are not proud of the publication is indicated by the fact that you may search the libraries of the state and you cannot find a recorded copy of the paper anywhere.

"To his credit it must be stated he believed he was right. He mistook the spirit of the whole movement. It was not orderly process of evolution. He designated it as revolution. The point, however, is that he still believes in reaction, and I still believe in progress. He designated it as socialism. The truth of the matter is that it prevented socialism."

Baker Defends Treaty.

Secretary of War Baker, who also spoke before the convention, denied there was "anything in the league of nations pact that abridged the power of congress to declare war or conclude peace.

"If we play a lone hand," he said, it must be a strong hand. We will be but one competitor in a universal race for armed supremacy; civilization will impoverish itself preparing for its own destruction."

TINY TIM IN DWARFLAND

Little crippled boy gets thrill of life visiting with midgets as circus gives second annual special performance for Chicago's destitute and crippled children. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

A row of little boards was propped up around one side of the courtyard at 1653 Park avenue yesterday. Strapped to each board was a little boy or girl. Braces held misshapen bones in place, weights tugged at crooked joints, and bandages bound pain-racked bodies. The children were "roof patients," who had been carried gently down by nurses to watch the second annual performance given by the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus for the little destitute and crippled children.

But all pain and suffering were forgotten as clumsy elephants did wonderful things in the sawdust ring, a real circus band in uniform played lively tunes, funny clowns turned flip-flops on a red carpet, and trick dogs and monkeys performed all sorts of queer tricks.

Two athletic midgets, no bigger than the smallest of the patients, gave a boxing exhibition. The beautiful lady in the white spangled dress came over and kissed Mary—Mary of the tubercular spine—and the big fat clown gathered Annie up in his muscular arms and planted a rousing kiss on her cheek, leaving a red and white splotch which she wouldn't let the nurse wipe off.

Even the animals seemed to excel themselves, and as for the performer Lectere, the clown, expressed it thus:

"If I could play before an audience like this all year there never would be such a thing as a grouch. It's a sort of a feeling you can't get before the most appreciative crowd in the big top."

HARDING VETOES MANY APPEALS TO TOUR NATION

Decides on Two Talks, Both at Marion.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Marion, O., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—There are 500 appeals from organizations and individuals who want Senator Harding to make speeches either at their towns or from the famous Harding porch.

National Chairman Will H. Hays and Harry S. New, chairman of the speakers' bureau, told Senator Harding of these appeals and he vetoed nearly every proposition that would take him away for the next six weeks.

At night only two definite dates could be given out. One was Aug. 28 at Marion, a speech to the Indianapolis Harding and Coolidge club on the league of nations.

Senator Harding intended to wait for his Minneapolis meeting to state whether he would accept any kind of a covenant similar to the Wilson plan and just what steps he intends to take, in the event of election, toward peace and a new concert of nations. It was also determined to have the senator's Labor day speech delivered in Marion on Sept. 6 before the Central Labor union.

May Go Away Later.

There remains to be considered the possibility of making several other speeches outside Marion during September. Four or five places are bringing great pressure. There are many delegations asking for dates here and these will be decided in a few days.

"We are not going to make a whirling dervish of our candidate," was Senator New's comment on the campaign.

In addition to this conference the senator talked farm matters with Henry Wallace and talked on publicity with Albert Lasker of Chicago. The dates for speeches and the subject matter will be worked into the publicity campaign from now on. The twelve word slogan adopted will be announced soon. This, it is understood, was written by Senator Harding himself.

Railroad Official Calls.

W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, called on the senator today. This had no special significance, the senator said. He denied the report that Mr. Atterbury had brought a special message from Senator Penrose. Mr. Atterbury talked of the transportation crisis and said the solution of the problem must be approached by gradual and safe steps.

"In its relation to the political questions of this year," he said, "I feel that Senator Harding's candidacy and the program of the Republican party represent assurance of that careful, considerate, and constructive attitude that is absolutely necessary to deal with the problem.

MANGIN SHOWS K. OF C. PILGRIMS BATTLEFIELDS

CHATEAU THIERRY, France, Aug. 17.—Gen. Mangin, who commanded the French and American forces which launched the great counter-attack against the Germans between Soissons and Chateau Thierry in July, 1918, today guided the visiting Knights of Columbus delegates over the battlefields.

Extolling American efforts in this sector, Gen. Mangin, affectionately called "the butcher" by his crack troops, said:

"The secret of victory is attack, attack, keep on attacking. That is what the Americans did, and that is how the war was won."

The Knights then placed a wreath in the American cemetery at Belleau Wood. When they returned from the cemetery the mayor presented them with an engraved stone from the bridge defended by Americans at Chateau Thierry. The stone is to be given to the American legion in the United States.

OGLESBY WINS MANY FRIENDS IN STATE TOUR

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17.—Lieut. Gov. John G. Oglesby today started on the fourth week of his campaign. His itinerary carries him through Lake, McHenry, Winnebago, Stephenson, Jo Daviess, Carroll, Ogle, Lee, Whiteside, Rock Island, Mercer, Henderson, Knox, Henry, Bureau, La Salle, Grundy, Kendall, De Kalb, Kane, and Will counties.

The candidate for the Republican nomination for governor is filled with enthusiasm as the result of the encouragement received the last three weeks he has been on the road." His campaign manager, Senator C. F. Buck, discussing the outlook, today issued the following statement:

"The Oglesby-for-governor campaign is gathering unprecedented force as his meetings show. The issue has gone home to the people of the state and they are coming out in large numbers to meet and hear Lieut. Gov. Oglesby because he stands for the kind of government in which they believe."

"SCRAP WILSON MACHINE—GET A HARDING 1920"

The storm of slogans continues—slogans in prose, long ones, short ones, punning and cunning ones, and most of them are for Harding.

"Scrap the Wilson-Burleson machine—get a Harding 1920"—That is the offering of Miss Clare Ottmen, 210 South Washington street, Peoria, Ill.

"Gov. Cox, shake hands with President Harding," comes from Simon Bloch of 5639 Indiana avenue.

Basil James Vale of 1011 N. Mason avenue, Austin, has drawn a Liberty bell, and in it he has inscribed:

"Liberty Bell! A Hard Ding for Mine!"

It takes only three words for Burt Finney, proprietor of Finney's Drug Store, Bismarck, N. D., to put himself on record for Cox. Says he:

"Cox—Vox Pop."

"Be a Fox. Vote for Cox."—That comes from L. G. Skarr, 1311 West Chicago avenue.

And Jennie Golding of 5650 Prairie avenue believes this is about right: "As a baby needs its mother, Jimmy, that's how we need you."

HARDING JOYOUS, COX SERIOUS, IN YOUTHFUL DAYS

BY EYE WITNESS.

VII.

[Copyright, 1920: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"The more I think back to those days," said Warren Harding, blandly continuing the story of his boyhood while the fretting secretary with the letters to be signed jangled every fifteen minutes over the telephone—"the more struck I am by the survival in them of things that seem now to have been a part of a much earlier time in Ohio.

"I remember that when I was quite a grown lad and was just beginning to spout at schoolhouse meetings and celebrations my granduncle, Perry Harding, said to me one day, 'I hear, son, that you're going to speak at the meeting next week.' I told him I was, and he said—he thought I was great at those things—'Well, I'll announce you from my horse.'

"'Announce me from your horse? I'm afraid I don't get you, Uncle Perry.'

"'Why, yes,' said the old man; 'I'll ride around to the men in the fields and stop at all the farmhouses and tell 'em you're going to speak.'"

"Kind of Paul Revere stuff," said I, for the lack of some brighter comment on the quaint picture.

The senator did not mind the banality. "Yes," he said, "Paul Revere stuff."

Cox, Too, Talks of Change.

Gov. Cox also touched on the more than a century of social and economic change which the actual half century spanned by his life has brought, but he did it in a strain of acute contrast rather than in any mood of fond recollection. He was speaking of the old and the new Ohio state constitutions. Of the one the commonwealth was blundering along under so lately as 1912 he said: "Absolutely everything had stepped past government. Problems that our fathers hadn't even dreamed of confronted the men who were trying to make the old instrument work. We had passed from an agrarian to an industrial state. Everything was different. Why! even the churches weren't being run as they were run in the old days. Of course the operation of such an antiquated instrument was difficult and very costly. It wasted millions in unnecessary litigation alone."

The governor spoke of all this—well, you could not say, with a kind of horror, but certainly with grimness, and almost the only time I recall a jubilant note in his voice was when he said, "When I was elected the new constitution lay there on my desk in the state house and I tell you, Mr. Eye, it was a thrilling hour!"

Sturdy Manhood Made.

Warren Harding was equally self-revealing when he touched on the economic conditions of his youth and it was evident that he could discern in them a goodness not yet outworn because they made for a high and sturdy individuality, and made it easy for a man to find his work in the world.

He said:

"In the days I am talking of the blacksmith was the captain of industry of the village, and the wagonmaker and carriage builder and the general repair man were men who took great pride in their work and put a good deal of themselves into it. Their shops and smithies were real wood and metal working establishments and not mere places for assembling parts already fabricated. A buggy cost $250, and it was all made there—painting and all. We boys could see a vehicle in the making and we helped sandpaper the spokes. We followed the work from stage to stage, and loved it, and learned a bit of it. I learned to swing a paint brush and I rather liked it. I could do a sign and I could grain"—here a real gust of enthusiasm—"I could do a bully job of graining. At 16 I was painting the Methodist church in Caledonia on my own contract, when Garfield was shot."

Busy as the nominee was—what with the visiting delegation of Knights of Pythias that had just got itself backed out of the front yard and the political pooh-bahs from half a dozen states who were waiting to tell him things—he still was loath to omit a single detail of those days, and lingered over them fondly and with much explication. It seemed to rest and cheer him. I have quoted him pretty fully on all that because, in all his talk on village life and village ideals in Ohio fifty years ago, he was really covering two stories for me. For Jimmie Cox's environment in Jacksonboro was precisely the same as his in Caledonia.

Where the Difference Lay.

The sole difference between the two boyhoods so far as you could judge from the men's stories, was that Warren's—"Winnie" his mother used to call him but the boys never did because he was too big and strong to make it safe—was a boyhood of happy activity and Jimmie's was one of hard work. The governor brought that out rather plaintively, but without playacting, when in speaking of his reading he said, "My reading has been confined almost exclusively to economics and historical biography. Little fiction. I started the serious game too early to get in much of the lighter side of life or of books. I never had a boyhood."

Those are mournful words for a successful man to utter when he looks back to the years in which the road to happiness should be the easiest to find.

I don't suppose the governor quite meant them, and I daresay none of us was ever quite so happy or—mercifully—so unhappy as, in the long retrospect, we think we were. 'Tis the mood of the now that touches our thoughts of the then with gold or with gloom, and we are such stuff as dreams are made on.

CITY HALL EYES EASY MILLIONS OF DRAINAGE BOARD

Orgy of Spending in Sight if It Wins.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

Of all of the local tax expending bodies the sanitary district offers the most inviting opportunity to spend money.

The Lundin-Thompson organization wants control of that board. This is the crowd now running the city hall, which—despite a large tax boost above its loss of liquor revenue—has issued scrip to pay part of its current debts, permitted others to go to judgment because of lack of cash, and will end the year with an estimated deficit of $5,000,000.

The domination of the sanitary district would materially aid the city hall machine. The district has credit. It has a large unused power to levy taxes. It has an unemployed authority to issue bonds. It has the facilities with which to get money.

Spending Orgy Possible.

Coupled with the prospect of obtainable cash, the district has several projects for which plans have been prepared and larger ones in preparation. These will allow the board to spend and spend and spend.

To disclose this rare opportunity the potential resources of the district will first be explained.

The tax rate of the district—subject to the scaling process of the Juul law—is fixed at two-thirds of 1 per cent of the assessed valuation. This year that equals $11,732,682, while the tax receipts under the present management will total only $3,881,022.

If Len Small, the city hall candidate, is elected governor he should be willing to aid the Lundin-Thompson organization to remove the district's tax rate from the scaling process of the Juul law. With that done the district could levy a full $11,700,000 annually and increase the amount from year to year as the tax valuation is boosted.

Can Raise Bond Limit.

The district's bond limit is now 3 per cent of the assessed valuation. That means $52,797,387, of which only $13,807,000 has been issued. But if Small is made governor, why can't he help boost the bond limit from 3 to 5 per cent? It was 5 per cent until 1909.

Five per cent would mean a bonding power of $87,995,645. With only $13,807,000 in bonds outstanding, there would be $74,988,645 in bonds which could be authorized by the board.

But how could so much money be spent?

The answer is easy. Judge Landis recently decided that the district cannot take more than 4,167 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan to dilute the city's sewage. The district needs 10,000 cubic feet.

In lieu of the water which the court has decided the district has no legal authority to extract from the lake the sewage must be treated artificially. That cost has been carefully calculated by experts. Their estimate is $155,101,000 for a population of 3,048,000.

Projects to Cost Millions.

These projects alone—if the Landis decision is approved by the higher courts—will consume twice the suggested borrowing power of $74,988,645.

Some of this sewage disposal system must be constructed regardless of the outcome of the court decision. At the stockyards alone $6,000,000 is to be spent on an activated sludge plant. Of this cost the district is to pay 40 per cent. Plans have been prepared for another plant of the same character, costing $500,000, to be built in South Chicago.

If the district is limited to 4,167 feet per second of water flow the district's hydro-electric plant will be almost ready for the scrap heap, according to the district's engineers. It is from this plant that the city gets electricity with which to light the streets.

If the city is forced to build its own plant a large sum will be needed. An engineer of ability gave an offhand estimate of $20,000,000 as the amount necessary to build a plant capable of taking care of Chicago.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Illinois, the director of the census announced today, led all the states of the Union in excess of revenues over governmental expenditures for the last fiscal year.

In thirty-one of the forty-eight states the revenues exceeded the expenditures for governmental costs, including interest on indebtedness and outlays for permanent improvements.

Illinois produced the greatest excess of revenue with $10,097,851. Other states in which the excesses were more than a million dollars were:

Massachusetts	$6,229,663
Minnesota	4,544,550
Iowa	3,426,372
Connecticut	3,224,014
Missouri	3,148,892
New Jersey	3,034,414
Wisconsin	2,848,847
Oklahoma	1,681,410
Pennsylvania	1,608,290
Washington	1,112,248
Montana	1,080,214

The other states to produce an increase, each less than a million dollars, were Indiana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Tennessee, Alabama, Arkansas, Texas, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, and Nevada.

Taking the forty-eight states as a whole, the excess of revenues over expenditures was $34,314,063, or $1.1 cents per capita.

SHAKEUP ORDER HITS BUREAU OF U.S. IMMIGRATION

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—Reorganization of the bureau of immigration has been ordered by Assistant Secretary of Labor Post.

The action was taken, officials of the department said today, because of conditions indicating "utter disorganization" of the bureau, both here and in its field service.

On Aug. 14 a memorandum was prepared by Secretary Post inquiring into the "causes of and remedies for the disorganized conditions in the bureau of immigration and its consequent inefficiency." Certain "undesirable" conditions prevailing in the bureau were ordered remedied immediately.

THE CONSTITUTION AND THE COVENANT.

In the Voice of the People is published a letter from a Georgia lawyer making inquiries. Poland is a complete case in point. In this case Poland was the original aggressor, but that does not make any difference now. Russia is attacking Warsaw and may win it and may overrun all Poland.

Poland is a member of the league of nations. The other members have pledged their solemn oath to protect the territorial integrity of a member nation against external aggression.

The league of nations has eight members in its council of nine. The ninth member, the United States, has not joined. If the United States had joined the league of nations, it would have pledged its word to defend the territorial integrity of Poland.

Congress would have the alternative, when the question was presented to it, as it would be, in the form of appropriation bills and military measures, of breaking the pledged word of the United States or of taking steps to protect Poland.

It is possible for a president to make virtual war without a declaration of war by congress. No declared state of war can exist unless the declaration comes from congress. But the United States, if it signed the covenant of the league without the Lodge reservation covering this point, would have committed itself to the defense of European, Asiatic, and other territory.

It does not say it will protect such territory in case congress sees fit to authorize the proper measures. It says, or would say, if it signed Wilson's covenant, that regardless of conditions and contingencies it will protect. That is a pledge which goes flat.

If the Russians withstand economic pressure, measures of nonintercourse, blockades, etc., as they have withstood such measures thus far, and remain in Poland, that obligation would stand and it would humiliate the nation which accepted it.

The United States, having given its word, has not met its obligations until it has used the means at its disposal for fulfilling them. It has not exhausted its means until it has gone to war. When it has enlisted men, issued bonds, and levied taxes it has used the means it has for carrying out its pledged word.

If congress does not concede that its decision is forestalled it breaks a treaty obligation. If its constitutional authority to decide exists, under the present covenant of the league, then the covenant itself does not.

The nation cannot sign a pledge without reservations and then assert that the constitutional prerogative still exists unless it wants to confess bad faith in advance and say that it does not mean what it signs.

The covenant is a moral transfer of authority. Congress at any time could refuse to make good the nation's word, but could do so only by repudiating a treaty.

The friends of the covenant, as it stands, may have their choice in this alternative. They may say that the treaty obligations of the United States are not undertaken in good faith, or they must say that the decisions of congress have been foreclosed.

If the United States had signed the covenant it would be pledged to Polish support. If the pledge meant anything it would mean that the United States was committed, if necessary, to war with Russia. Even with the United States in the league the council might take to the woods, as it has done. In that case, in the absence of advice from the council, the moral lapse of the United States might be no more conspicuous than the lapse of the many nations, big and little, which have joined the league, and which are doing nothing for Poland, and which intend to do nothing for Poland.

All these nations indulged themselves in a virtuous state of mind, and when the situation plainly covered in what Mr. Wilson calls the heart of the covenant, developed, the woods were full of nations taking to cover.

It is an exhibition in which Americans may be glad the United States has no part. The United States has no natural part in these wars of European imperialism. There is no reason why boys from Maine, Kansas, Illinois, or any other state should be fighting on the Vistula because Polish ambition aimed at conquest of Russian territory.

The United States constitution contemplates that the representatives of the American people shall determine the solemn occasions which require the use of American soldiers. The covenant of the league stipulates that American soldiers may be used whenever European, Asiatic, or African boundary lines are overstepped by an external enemy.

WHEN AN HOUR MEANS HALF A DAY.

While railroad executives of the United States, again "on their own" in the matter of railroad operation, are struggling with the general transportation problem, they might find a moment for a specific case having to do chiefly with Chicago and New York.

The Twentieth Century and Broadway Limited are extra fare passenger trains originally established largely for the use of busy business men with interests in both Chicago and New York. Originally they left Chicago at 12:40 p. m., to arrive in New York at 9:30 a. m. This schedule allowed a man to complete a morning's business in Chicago and have a useful portion of the next morning in New York. Under daylight saving they leave Chicago at 1:40 and arrive in New York at 10:30.

The delay in leaving, coming as it does at the lunch hour, is a waste. The delay in arriving practically wastes the morning in New York. Most of their traffic is through traffic. As long as daylight saving in Chicago and New York causes this waste, we believe passengers would appreciate it if the railroads made their schedules for these trains an hour earlier. The change would mean practically half a day to men whose days are all too short.

NO TAMMANY IN ILLINOIS.

Omar H. Wright, state director of finance, is authority for the statement that the state of Illinois saved $44,829.36 in the last fiscal year by paying cash. This was done under the state administration which reduced the tax rate 33 per cent. This is the state administration which the Thompson-Lundin organization is attacking, and seeking to supplant. Why?

Has the Thompson-Lundin machine saved any money to Chicago taxpayers by paying cash? It has not. Instead, it not only sacrifices the possibility of a discount on its bills for cash but borrows money and pays interest on it to make belated payment of bills. Has it reduced the tax rate? It has not. It has raised the rate and appealed to the state legislature to allow a greater raise.

If it gets its hands on the state treasury with $14,000,000 surplus, $80,000,000 worth of bonds, and other sources of supply available, will it keep the tax rate down and the surplus up? Can the tiger change his stripes?

INTERNATIONAL BANKERS FOR COX.

International bankers are said to incline towards Cox and the Democratic program. There were influences in the Republican convention seeking, for international finance, to tone down the Republican resistance to the league of nations. These influences were shown the door. It is probably true that they find a true expression of their desires in the Democratic platform and are for Cox, who must stand by his platform.

It may not be irrelevant in this regard to cite a jubilant communication from the director of publicity of the Democratic national committee calling our attention to an editorial which we reprint below as Editorial of the Day. The New York Evening Post was purchased two or three years ago from its former owner, Oswald Garrison Villard, by Thomas Lamont of the banking house of J. P. Morgan.

We are reminded that the motives of an international banker are not necessarily bad, and that is true. But there is the certainty that his interests are international. He has not the undivided interest of a nationalist. Internationalists can be valuable to the comity of nations, but they are not necessarily of the highest value to their own country.

We suppose that in a direct conflict of interests an American international banker would be an American, at least if the conflict were important, but it is also true that American international finance is impressed by foreign influence.

It is easily impressed, as nearly all Americans are, by the attractiveness of English and European society. The American banker in London is a commoner in the midst of nobility and it may be natural socially for him to seek to increase his own attractions to the people who attract him.

The deliberate use of social ambitions is a device of realistic and ironic European diplomacy and many an American, consciously or unconsciously, works for the interest of the country in which he wishes to make himself favorably known even if it be against the interest of his own country.

It would not be just to say that he would sacrifice an important American interest, but the current of his opinion and activity is towards the land in which he wishes to advance. He cannot acquire merit by vigorous support of America in Great Britain. The British might have greater respect for his honesty but less use for him at tea.

Cox and his party's program do not advance American interests. They promote the interests of other nations and we presume he and his party are favored by international bankers.

THE IMMOBILE FREIGHT CAR.

"Immobility," not shortage, of cars is blamed for freight traffic delay by the Illinois Agricultural association after a week's survey of the car situation in this state. If the findings announced by the association are representative, the matter of speedy transportation improvement would seem to lie almost entirely with the railroad executives.

They have been granted rates which promise to be sufficient for their needs. The workers have been granted wage increases which should keep them actively on the job. If the executives do not wish to see the roads forced into government ownership by popular protest against inefficiency they will buckle down to the task of efficient railroading.

The farmers' report offers interesting figures in support of the contention that "immobility" is now the chief difficulty. Of 9,294 cars listed at various points outside Chicago, the association found 938, or approximately 10 per cent, did not turn a wheel in a week. Of nine stations checked in Grundy county, five showed that out of a total of 454 cars listed, 236, or more than half, had not been moved in a week. Four of the nine stations showed complete clearance. These four stations show that it can be done. It is up to the railroads to do it.

Editorial of the Day

FOR THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND COX.

[From the New York Evening Post.]

The paramount issue in the presidential campaign is the treaty of peace and the league of nations with safeguarding reservations. Shall America keep faith with her partners in the war? Shall America join with them in the old honorable and effective way of making peace with Germany? Shall America enter heart and soul upon the work of maintaining the peace of the world as she did upon the task of winning the war?

To these questions Gov. Cox has answered yea and Senator Harding has answered no. If the Evening Post, during the week that has elapsed since Gov. Cox's speech of acceptance, has held in abeyance its declaration of choice between the two candidates, the reason was not that we were in doubt concerning Gov. Cox's affirmative stand on the treaty and the league. We waited only to see whether Senator Harding would hold fast to his policy of negation.

Senator Harding has maintained his no to the question of America's honor, duty, the ultimate best interests. The issue is thus clearly joined. The Evening Post, believing that it speaks for a great mass of independent American citizenship, pledges its hearty support to the Democratic nominees, in whom it sees embodied the highest aims and ideals of the American people.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

FROM the speeches of Democratic Demosthenes one might almost draw the conclusion that the Covenant of the League is not perfect. Indeed, some go so far as to say that "no human document is perfect."

"STOP!" cried a flock of Ohio constables to the chauffeur of Gov. Cox's car. But Mr. Cox, true to campaign form, cried "Forward!" And Progressivism continued at forty miles per hour.

"WHOM the mad wags up Gloucester way call the Ponzi asinorum," observes F. P. A. Showing, perchance, that the m. w. u. G. w. are occasional readers of this column.

Alcatraz, where there is, they say,
A prisoner for a hundred years.

"Now, just a little to the west,
The Campanile across the Bay,
Erected as a last bequest——"
(Bell rings. All hurry to the quay.)
But thoughts are errant things and stray.
And he whose heart heard, only hears
"Alcatraz where a man will stay
A prisoner for a hundred years."

Not his tall Tamalpais' crest,
Not his the clouded waters grey,
Nor ships upon the ocean's breast,
Nor any wonders grave or gay.
His but to rot, the helpless prey,
In bitterness and pain and tears
Of every hopeless night and day—
A prisoner for a hundred years.

Forget the price that he must pay.
The sky is blue. Forget your fears.
Forget (for it is sweet to play)
A prisoner for a hundred years. P. W. B.

THE BIRD CLOCK.

The night fades, all is hushed;
The paling sky is like a sheet of canvas waiting color;
Even the air is expectant.
Suddenly from the maples comes an experimental whistle,
Then, confidently,
"Cheerio, cheerio—quick, quick, quick!"
The cardinal heralds the dawn.
The light grows stronger, the breeze springs up;
A catbird's liquid melody
Splashes down from the tree tops in a sprinkle of silvery notes.
The sun is in the sky.
All the bright morning hours
The robins, little cousins of the household,
Scatter their cheerful remarks to the winds
And spot the lawn with color.
Noon comes; the birds are quiet,
Save a scolding jay, nagging the querulous woodpecker.
Through the sparkling afternoon
Flash the orioles, trilling jazz-music,
While the grackles and redwings
Ask their ceaseless questions.
The brown-thrashers lurk in the shadows,
And the rain-crow prophecies dolefully.
The wrens come and go, noisily, tirelessly,
Ticking off the minutes of the day.
Now the sun slips below the purpling hills.
The mourning-dove
Utters her soft lament to the twilight,
The whippoorwills circle and call in the deepening dusk,
A hoot-owl shivers the air into fragments,
But is soon still, moth hunting.
Night. The far, hoarse call of a bittern,
A night-hawk's petulant note,
One last crooning murmur of the dove—
The birds are still. IRIS.

HEREDITY AND DEAFNESS.

THE telephone is due to Alexander Graham Bell's interest in deafness. To the same interest is due the best contribution we have to the relations of inheritance to deafness. He provided a fund which enabled Dr. E. A. Fay to study the family relations of the deaf in the United States more than twenty years ago. The researches since that time have done little more than confirm the data disclosed by Dr. Fay.

In making the study Dr. Fay began with a large amount of data collected by Dr. Bell himself. The investigations related to the results of marriage of 4,471 deaf persons in the United States and Canada.

Von Troltsch said every third person between 20 and 50 years of age is more or less deaf in at least one ear. However, in this study the term deaf is restricted to those who were so deaf that they attended schools for the deaf at some time or other prior to the time of the study.

The study teaches that deafness, both congenital and acquired, is inheritable, though the laws of its inheritance are somewhat different from those which relate to other qualities. This is because a person may be deaf because of trouble in his center of hearing or in his nerves of hearing, or in some one of several parts of his hearing apparatus.

Therefore, deafness is not a simple quality as is the case with some others. When a deaf person marries he generally marries a deaf partner. Only 20 per cent of the married deaf were married to hearing partners.

Marriages of deaf persons are not so productive as marriages of hearing persons. Marriages in which both partners are deaf are less productive than marriages of the deaf with hearing partners.

Marriages of the deaf are far more likely to result in deaf offspring than ordinary marriages. Eight and six-tenths per cent of the children of marriages of the deaf are deaf. On the other hand, most of the children born to such unions have good hearing.

If the deaf parents are cousins the percentage of deaf children will be higher.

In a series of thirty-one marriages of deaf cousins, 45 per cent of the unions resulted in some deaf children and 30 per cent of all the children born were deaf.

Rather strangely, the marriage of the deaf to the deaf produced no higher percentage of deaf children than the marriages of the deaf to hearing partners. The children of the congenitally deaf are far more liable to be deaf than are those of those who acquire deafness.

It seems, however, established that acquired deafness can be inherited. The possession of deaf relatives is a trustworthy indication of a liability to deaf offspring. If both partners have deaf relatives the liability is increased.

BABY NEEDS MORE FOOD.

Anxious Mother writes: "My baby is 2 months old. She has been fed on one-third milk and two-thirds barley water. This does not seem to agree with her. My doctor advised whey. How can I make feeding for twenty-four hours and serve at blood heat? How would you advise me to make and serve?"

REPLY.

You are not feeding enough. A baby 2 months old can take a mixture of 8 ounces of whole milk, 12 ounces boiled water and ¾ ounce sugar; 5¼ ounces at a feeding; feedings every three hours. A better plan is to feed according to weight as given in "Infant Care," distributed by Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C.

To make whey take one pint of fresh milk. Warm to 100, add two teaspoonfuls of essence of pepsin. Stir for two minutes. Then let stand until curdled. Break up curds. Strain off whey through muslin. Keep whey on ice. Do not warm it until time to use it.

LITTLE MORE TO DO.

W. J. H. writes: "I am 72 years old and troubled with high blood pressure. I suffer most just before going to bed and after I get in bed; not any during the day. I have cut out meat and coffee, and live on bread and milk, vegetables, and fruit. Will you kindly suggest something to help me? Do you think fish and salads with French dressing harm me? If you will kindly answer this you will do me a great favor."

REPLY.

I do not know what you can do in addition to what you are now doing except take a few ounces of mineral oil a day, or a large enema, or both. Fish is no better for you than meat. You can eat salads.

MIGHT TRY IODINE.

M. A. H. writes: "I have several warts on my fingers. They are very annoying as they are on the palm side of the hand. How can I get rid of them? I will try anything. I also have moles on my neck. Is there anything to be done for them?"

REPLY.

G. H. writes that he had a multitude of warts. They started on his left hand; later, about as many developed on his right hand. One day a lady advised him to apply a strong solution of plain iodine (presumably so called tincture of iodine straight) morning and night for three weeks. This he did. "And there isn't now the faintest trace of anything at all."

EAT VEGETABLES AND FRUITS.

E. P. F. writes: "Will you kindly let me know what foods I should eat, as my system is full of acid?"

REPLY.

Assuming you are correct, eat abundantly of potatoes, other vegetables and fruits. Eat no meat. Statements similar to yours generally are incorrect.

SEND STAMPED ENVELOPE.

R. G. writes: "I noticed your answer for a cure for finger nail biting. As I am in the habit of chewing my nails unconsciously, would like to know how to rid myself of it?"

REPLY.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for formula.

LATE APPLICATION FOR EQUIPMENT.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—Is it too late to make an application for my equipment, which I did not receive upon discharge from the army? I went away right after being discharged and upon my return one of the fellows in the neighborhood told me that he got his equipment, but couldn't remember the address of the place, as he says he went down there on an army bus.

F. A.

It is not too late to have the equipment issued. Go to the sales and issues branch of the sone supply office, 1819 West Thirty-ninth street, Chicago, where you may make application for the equipment. Take your discharge along. The articles will be issued to you from that office.

I have on some occasions not paid it until the third or fourth. The owner has always accepted these checks and made no complaint. The lease is still in effect.

WISHES MINNESOTA BONUS.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—I was a resident of Minnesota and registered there for the draft and enlisted there in the army. I was in the service for seventeen months, but after being discharged I went to the home of my parents, which had been changed from Minnesota to Chicago. As I was a resident of Minnesota at the time of my enlistment, would I have any right to the soldier's bonus of that state?

A. R. M.

As we understand the Minnesota state bonus laws, you could collect this service men's bonus. We advise that you write to the bonus board, capitol building, St. Paul, Minn., asking for official blanks on which to make application for the bonus. They cannot decide your claim until you send in these blanks with all questions answered thereon.

JUSTICE VS. LAW.

Grand Lake, Colo., Aug. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—It is currently reported that tourists who bought return trip tickets while the old passenger rates were in force will have to pay additional fares after Sept. 20, notwithstanding such tickets were sold good till Oct. 1. Will you explain how the railroads can break their contracts without liability? R. C. B.

It is an established rule that contracts relating to charges of public utilities are subject to revision in the interests of the public.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—No doubt you think Mr. Orr's cartoon on the editorial page of this morning's issue was fine, as well as your articles saying the people of Illinois do not want any "Tammany" of the city hall type. I wish to state that every time one tries to "knock" some one it is a "boost."

If Mayor Thompson would pay you like Carter Harrison did you would say anything and laud him to the skies. If you can't rule then you are going to ruin.

MAKING A PROGRESSIVE OF F. D.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—"See by the paper" that the chairman of the Republicans' speakers' bureau is apprehensive lest Franklin D. Roosvelt make too great an inroad on the prospective progressive vote, and will follow the "trail of the loathsome vote piner" with the real Roosevelt. Ah! Ah! But is this trailing Roosevelt, whom Senator New sends upon the hunt, "the real Roosevelt"? Let's see!

Would the "real Roosevelt" stand for Harding in the first place? Primarily because of his reactionary tendencies. Secondly, because he and his ilk tore the Republican party asunder in 1912. Thirdly, because Mr. Harding maligned Mr. Roosevelt in a scathing manner, going so far as to call Theodore Roosevelt the modern Benedict Arnold. And believe me, if a son of Theodore Roosevelt wants to stultify himself and support a man who is reactionary and who denounced his father in such despicable terms the real progressive voters will not.

THE CONSTITUTION AND THE COVENANT.

Colquitt, Ga., Aug. 14.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—A few days ago I wrote you a letter and asked you to answer two questions, and I presume that the letter miscarried.

I was delighted at your article, "Here's Where We Draw the Line."

I wanted you to name one line or sentence in article 10 of the league of nations that violated any provision of the constitution of the United States.

Second, I wanted you to name or point out one line or sentence in article 10 of the league of nations that deprives congress of the sole and only power to declare war.

I would thank you to publish this letter with your reply. W. I. GEER.

PERHAPS COX CAN ANSWER.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Prior to Wilson's attempt to banshee the United States with his pet notions of internationalism camouflaged under the euphonious name, "covenant of the league of nations," I was a Democrat. I am now, however, for Harding, who represents the party that is pledged to abide by the traditional Americanism of the fathers.

I should like to be informed by those who burn incense at the altar of the covenant of the league of nations, why that carefully incubated animal is not functioning now that the territorial integrity of Poland is menaced by the external aggression of the Russians?

I presume the real reason is to be found in the fact that the astute and wily politicians of Europe are watchfully waiting for the election of Cox, believing that his election would mean the conscription of our boys for service in the slaughter pens of Europe to be shot to smithereens. J. C. MURPHY.

NO ACID TEST FOR LINCOLN.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—It was to be expected that the dyed-in-the-wool Roosevelt people, for whom Teddy did the thinking, would at this opportune election time be in evidence again, comparing President Wilsons and the presidential nominees' ideals with those of former great presidents such as Roosevelt, Lincoln and Washington. With all due reverence to these great presidents in their time, still it should be remembered that neither of them has been put to the acid test of handling the perplexing problems that have confronted Woodrow Wilson in this new age.

President Wilson, like other great presidents, and the presidential nominees of today, is all the more popular for the enemies he makes rather than for the friends he gains.

Roosevelt admirers are so absorbed in the ideals of their idol that the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, Franklin D. Roosevelt, is classed as a black sheep of the distinguished family tree because he differs in opinion. The characteristics of Franklin Roosevelt, whose name makes his position embarrassing, no doubt would remain the same if he were known by a different name.

RAILROADS SEEK BILLION MORE FROM COUNTRY

Kansas City Southern Brief Paves Way.

A move by the railroads which, if successful, would add more than a billion dollars to the cost of the government's experiment in railroad operation, has been instituted by the Kansas City Southern railroad, it became known yesterday.

Railroad executives in Chicago were reticent concerning the brief in which the Kansas City Southern management submits to the interstate commerce commission its appeal for a ruling that will greatly increase the amount to be paid the railroads under the governmental guarantee of returns on investment and operating expenses.

Prepared to Give Support.

It was generally admitted, however, that the roads are interested in the action and are prepared to give the Kansas City Southern moral and material support.

The Kansas City Southern asks that the government, in fixing the amount of maintenance funds to be paid the road under the government's guarantee, take into consideration "not only the increase in the amount of the wage unit over the amount of the wage unit in operation for the three year period prior to June 30, 1917, but the decrease in the amount of labor productivity the increased wage unit will purchase at present and has purchased since the government took over the railroads as compared with the amount of labor production purchasable with the smaller wage unit before the government took over the rail lines."

Tells Production Cut.

The brief, prepared by Samuel W. Moore of New York, sets forth that while the wages per hour have in some instances increased 100 per cent or more, the amount of work accomplished in an hour has decreased in many instances more than 25 per cent.

The following excerpts from the voluminous statistics are typical of the slump in efficiency on jobs cited:

Job—	Before U. S. control. Hrs.	Since U. S. control. Hrs.
Disconnecting firebox from boiler	25	36
Flanging sheets	75	104
Threading staybolts and drilling telltale holes	92	130
Riveting firebox to boiler and applying stays	137	193

All the roads radiating from Chicago are preparing briefs, but their tenor is being kept strictly secret.

ICKES, MOOSE LEADER, HELPS JUDGE MATCHETT

Tells Why He Should Be Prosecutor.

Harold L. Ickes, former Progressive leader, took the open yesterday as a supporter of Judge David F. Matchett for the Republican nomination for state's attorney. At the headquarters of the National Republican party, at 109 North Dearborn street, Mr. Ickes made a public announcement for Judge Matchett. It was received with utmost satisfaction by the leaders of the forces opposed to the Thompson-Lundin organization.

Judge Matchett was present when Mr. Ickes said:

Old Foe of Party Bosses.

"I am for Judge Matchett for state's attorney, not because he is a candidate at this time but because he really possesses the qualifications we need in that office. He will not pull any one's political chestnuts out of the fire. He will not sacrifice principle for political expediency. Not only is he an able judge and capable lawyer, but he has been one of the most effective fighters for good government in Cook county.

"I first knew him twenty or more years ago when both of us were fighting the notorious Lorimer-Jamieson machine in Hyde Park. Judge Matchett never wavered in that fight until Lorimerism was driven out of Hyde Park.

"He is straightforward, upright, and able. He is the kind of a state's attorney that Cook county long has been looking for, but which it seldom, if ever has had.

Rumor Hoyne Is to Quit.

City hall Republicans were circulating the report yesterday that State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne is contemplating withdrawing from the Democratic primary race and making his fight for reelection as an independent candidate at the November election. No verification for the rumor could be secured in any reliable quarter.

Igoe Attacks Hoyne.

Michael L. Igoe, candidate for the Democratic primary nomination against Mr. Hoyne, issued a statement yesterday that indicated positively that the Democratic primary fight is to be full of pepper.

"The people will not be satisfied," Mr. Igoe said, "with the buck passing between their present state's attorney and a judge presiding in the Criminal court, who also desires to be state's attorney. Between them they have established the incontrovertible fact that the people were betrayed."

Lowden to Talk Tonight.

This is to be one of the vital days of the Republican state primary campaign. Gov. Lowden takes the platform in a speech tonight at Springfield that is to be his first public utterance in the state Republican battle. At Rock Island John G. Oglesby, candidate for governor, is to speak, accompanied by Col. John V. Clinnin, who is scheduled to take after the city hall candidates. At Kankakee, at Len Small's annual fair, all of the candidates on the city hall slate will attend and Mayor Thompson will lead a large delegation from Chicago to the roundup. No speaking is on the schedule.

Democrats Become Active.

Democratic state headquarters were thrown open yesterday at the Hotel Sherman by the state chairman, Ernest Hoover of Taylorville. Today Congressman Frank Doremus of Detroit comes to Chicago to take charge of the Democratic western headquarters, that are to occupy the entire eighth floor of the Consumers building at State and Quincy streets. W. R. Hollister, executive secretary of the national committee, also arrives this morning from Washington. National Chairman George H. White is to come Monday. "One hundred per cent bunk," was the comment of George E. Brennan upon a report that Mr. White is to retire as manager of the Cox-Roosevelt campaign. Mr. White, in New York, issued a formal denial of the report. Gov. Cox is to be here for three hours tomorrow morning between trains, departing at 10 o'clock a. m. for South Bend, Ind.

Women's War on Mayor.

Republican women of Illinois opposed to the City Hall state ticket organized yesterday for the primary campaign, at a session of the woman's anti-Thompson campaign committee, at Hotel La Salle. Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns, who presided, said: "It will be a great encouragement to bolshevism in Europe if 'Thompsonism' wins in Illinois."

Mrs. Medill McCormick outlined the method of organizing the precincts in the downstate counties that is to be followed by the women leaders.

"Any man who subscribed to the Thompson platform forfeited the support of loyal Republicans," Mrs. McCormick said. Attorney General Brundage addressed the women, expressing the hope that women shall have full suffrage in time to participate in the Sept. 15 primaries.

Hays and New Back Today.

Republican National Chairman Will H. Hays and Senator Harry S. New, head of the speakers' bureau of the Republican national campaign, are to return this morning from Marion, where they conferred yesterday with Senator Harding. Announcement of further speaking engagements for the nominee away from Marion, it is expected, will be made.

FALLS FROM LOOP BUILDING.

Frank Jensen, 30 years old, of 3113 Elston avenue, a janitor, was probably fatally injured yesterday morning when he fell from a fourth story window of the First National Bank building to the stone roof of an areaway two floors below.

BUSY FARMERS' TRACTOR-PLOWS TURN UP RICHES

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

Kilbourn, Wis., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Wisconsin has not been at all hard hit by the bogeyman "shortage of farm labor," if one may judge from the testimony of farmers along the 75 miles stretch from La Crosse to Kilbourn by way of Baraboo.

Diversified farming has been developed more highly than in most other agricultural states. The result has been that work on the farm has been spread over a longer season. Instead of everything ripening at once and piling a top load on the farmer to harvest everything on the jump, as in the wheat sections, Wisconsin's crops, potatoes, alfalfa, hay, barley, oats, corn, wheat, and the rest mature at different times, and the effect is to bring the hardest work over more months than is the case many places elsewhere.

Conditions Are Steadier.

The peak loads are not so high and the dips are not so low. Labor on the farm is more stabilized. Harvest does not bring the great demand for migratory workers as it does, for instance, in Kansas. The farm family unit is more easily enabled to handle its land, and what with the great increase in the use of tractors and other back saving and muscle amplifying devices, one finds few farmers repining because hired men are hard to get.

One farmer near Wonewoc reflected what scores of others said along the 75 mile stretch:

"Around here most everybody has a farm," he said. "To cut the sileage the farmer needs a gasoline engine. See the point. He might as well get one on wheels, and that is what he has been doing. Most all of them have tractors.

"Two trips over the field by tractor have enabled the farmer to perform in short time what would have required several men and horses under old methods. In this region the possible output of one man seems to increase faster than the number of farm hands decreased the weather hazard in Wisconsin. It is always sure to have some good crops. This year, although dry weather is dragging down the corn estimates, still the state looks for 68,000,000 bushels, which is about 3,000,000 bushels more than the five year average.

Potato Crop Is Fine.

Potatoes will give a great yield. Although injured a bit by drought and leaf hoppers, the experts look for 31,500,000 bushels, which is quite an advance from the 28,200,000 bushels of 1919 and the five year average of 27,233,000 bushels. Tobacco is thrifty, wheat is just about up to the five year average, while the hay crop, estimated at 5,016,000 tons, is almost up to the 1919 output, and is in excess of the five year average.

All told, the experts say the farm value of the 1920 crops will beat that of 1919. They estimate the crops this time will be worth about $395,000,000, as against $388,780,000 last year.

In this section of Wisconsin the farmers seem to be holding enough of their boys on the farm. In several hamlets we heard of retired farmers living in bungalows in town who worked on the land, especially since high cost of living started to browse in the clouds.

ROMANCE

MISS LEILA RUGGLES.

For seventeen years they have lived in homes separated only by a high board fence. But what's a high board fence where romance is involved?

Announcement is therefore made of the engagement of Miss Leila Ruggles of 926 North boulevard and Benjamin Glidden, 932 North boulevard, Oak Park.

They were playmates, then schoolday sweethearts. She is known as Oak Park's prettiest girl.

HELD FOR COLEMAN EXTORTION.

Mrs. Ella Wesley, colored, and Sam Nutcha, charged with attempting to extort $2,000 from the widow of Edward Coleman, murdered labor leader, were held to the grand jury in $5,000 bonds yesterday. The prisoners are said to have confessed.

The August Sale of Furs

Brings the New Fashions for Youth

Unusual skill is shown here in selecting furs which meet youth's exacting requirements in the most satisfactory way.

Workmanship of a higher order does justice to the superior quality of the fine pelts used. In every detail these furs emphasize the worth-while value of the unusual pricings.

Girls going away to school will see that certain featured items are planned especially for them. Fur coats, for example, as desirable in style as they are exceptionally priced.

And in the matter of style, too, is displayed a delightful originality not often found at so moderate a pricing.

Accenting the charm of these hats for early wear are delicate traceries of embroidery, quaint flowers of duvetyn, narrow ribbons in duo-tones.

In the youthful off-the-face styles, interesting variations of the sailor and the ever smart turban, every daytime need may be met.

Desired shades of brown and gray as well as navy blue are featured in this group. Large hats of black satin soleil are included at this very moderate pricing. $15.

YANK ATHLETES EARN POINTS IN OLYMPIC GAMES

EARL ELY.

ANTWERP, Aug. 17.—American athletes added to their lead in the Olympic track and field championships today, scoring well in two of the three events which were concluded. R. W. Landon of New York A. C. set a new Olympic record of 1.935 meters in the running high jump. This is about 6 feet 3 inches.

Landon's feat was the only record making performance of the day, although the mark was equaled in two of the semi-final heats of the 110 meter high hurdles. Landon was personally congratulated by King Albert of Belgium, who flew here by plane from Brussels.

All Four Yankees Score.

In addition to Landon's first, United States leapers captured half a double tie for second honors, and two-thirds of a triple tie for fourth. Muller of America and Ekelund, Sweden, failed in trials to leap the bar over Landon's height.

The 800 and 5,000 meter runs were the other finals contested. America did as well as expected in the former, but did not win a place in the latter.

In the 800 meters Earl Eby of Chicago finished a close second to A. G. Hill of Great Britain in the most sensational race of the meet. Hill led Eby by a foot at the tape. B. G. Rudd, South African, who was rated as favorite, placed third when he faltered just before the finish, and fell, completely exhausted, just beyond the tape.

Pace Is Terrific.

This race was run at a terrific pace all the way, and Lieut. Donald Scott, American army, and A. B. Sprott of Los Angeles, who placed fourth and fifth, respectively, made it a battle with every stride against the three Britons.

Thomas Campbell of Chicago, Yale university runner, who led the field for the first lap, swayed in the midst of his sprint sixty yards from the tape and collapsed. He was unconscious more than five minutes and had to be revived by a doctor and nurses and assisted off the field. At first it was feared his heart might be affected, but Campbell was pronounced in good health again tonight.

Sol Butler Is Hurt.

Besides the points lost when Campbell failed to finish was the severe setback when Sol Butler, Dubuque college Negro athlete, strained a tendon in his first trial in the running broad jump, and did not qualify. Butler was favorite in the event.

It was at first hoped that Butler's initial jump of 6.6 meters would qualify him, leaving a day to recuperate before the finals, but it fell just short of the lowest qualifying mark. Two other United States broad jumpers qualified among the leading six. They are Carl Johnson of University of Michigan and R. L. Templeton of Olympic club, San Francisco.

Two of the American entry of four also qualified in the shotput, P. J. McDonald, New York policeman, and H. B. Liversedge, Navy.

Shut Out in Distance Run.

Both Ivan Dresser and H. H. Brown, Americans left in the finals of the 5,000 meters run, found the pace too hot and dropped out after setting the pace for one lap. This race was won by the French poilu, Guillemot, after a great race. P. Nurmi of Finland finished second, sixty yards behind, Guillemot passing Nurmi in the last 220 yards. Guillemot was congratulated by King Albert.

Three Americans qualified for the finals in the 110 meter high hurdles, and either H. E. Barron of Meadowbrook club, Philadelphia, Walker Smith of Chicago A. A., or Fred Murray of New York A. C., is expected to run second tomorrow against the wonderful Earl J. Thomson, Dartmouth college man, competing for Canada.

Smith Able to Hurdle.

Smith's injured thigh muscle, strained in practice yesterday, did not appear so bad as at first expected.

Just as Landon's victory in the high jump was announced, and the American flag was being elevated to the top of the stadium, King Albert entered the stands. He stood at salute until the band finished "The Star Spangled Banner" and got a great cheer when the anthem closed.

Three hundred American Boy Scouts who were here preparatory to taking the Olympic athletes' transport, Princess Matoika, for home after their European trip were proudest of all the American rooters.

The crowd was larger than yesterday, making the stadium a spectacle of color contrast and animation.

Scholz Moved Up a Place.

The jury of Olympic games officials heard the protests over yesterday's disputed 100 meter dash. In addition to British and American protests regarding the faulty start, the French filed protest today on the same grounds. Disregarding the start, but considering the disputed finish, the jury voted that Jack Scholz of America be placed fourth, Ali Kahn, the French-Algerian, fifth, and Loren Murchison of America sixth. This gives America one point and takes one from France.

After the first heat in the 10,000 meter walk it was discovered the course was one lap short, and although it was announced that the results of the heat would stand, the time was ruled out. Three American walkers qualified.

COACH PRAISES LANDON

[BY JACK MOAKLEY.]

[Head Coach, American Olympic Team.]

ANTWERP, Aug. 17.—We added another record to our credit this afternoon, when R. W. Landon broke the Olympic mark in the high jump. It was a wonderful performance, and it is also a great credit to us when it is considered that H. Muller came second and Walter Whalen and Johnny Murphy fourth and fifth.

Ekelund, the Swedish jumper, was a formidable contender, but Landon is a phenomenal jumper and showed at his best. Conditions were none too good for high jumping because the field had to jump from new sod only recently laid.

We had one piece of distressing luck this afternoon, when Sol Butler, the Negro broad jumper, America's best, pulled a muscle in his first attempt in the elimination. None of the others who qualified came near the record jump he made in America in the final Olympic tryouts. Tears ran down his cheeks when he asked for another try. It was splendid courage. Butler would have been willing to break his leg rather than drop out of the competition.

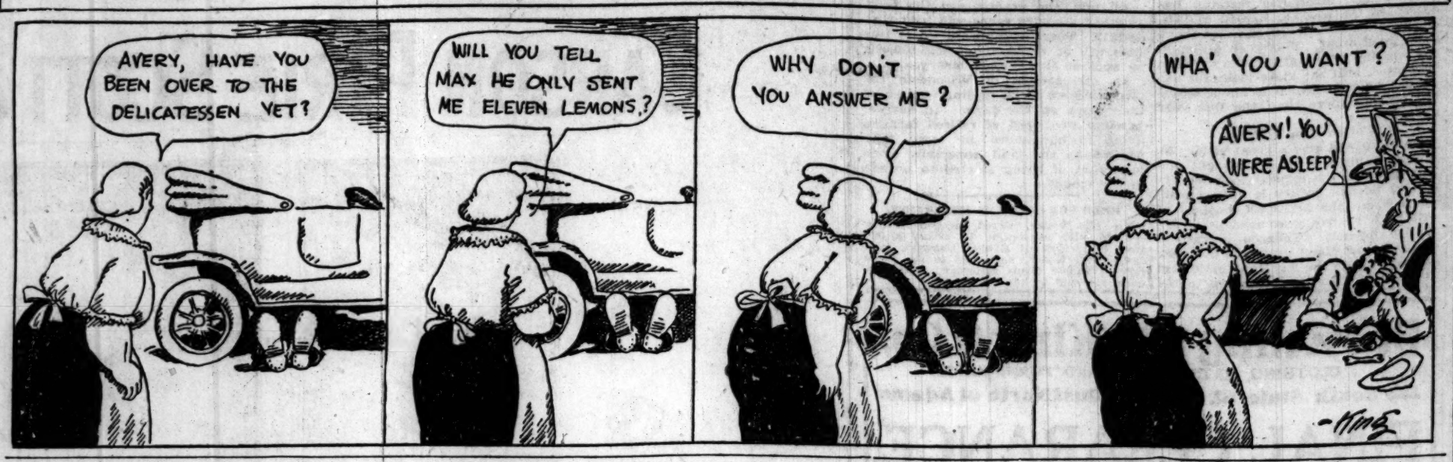
GASOLINE ALLEY—HE WAS TOO BUSY TO TALK.



In the Wake of the News

"BEAN BALL' PITCHING.

RAY CHAPMAN, brilliant shortstop of the Cleveland team and the type of player who is a credit to the national game, is the first major league victim of the so-called bean ball.

That Pitcher Carl Mays of the Yankees deliberately intended to hit and injure Chapman cannot be charged. Even if true, it could not be proved. That players do not regard Mays blameless is evident from the meetings of Cleveland, Boston, and Detroit players, who discussed the advisability of asking that Mays be barred from baseball.

Mays, known as an exponent of the bean ball, possibly directed a throw at Chapman's head as part of the strategy of the game accepted as legitimate by several managers and pitchers. Its object is to drive back a batter who is crowding the plate or to upset his mental poise by inspiring a fear of being hit. With new players just breaking in the effect is often to destroy their confidence.

That fatalities have not occurred before as the result of this unsportsmanlike delivery has been due to good fortune and the fact that experienced batters learn to become expert dodgers.

Legislation against the bean ball is extremely difficult because it is almost impossible to tell whether a pitcher is throwing at the batter's head or is just naturally wild. Chapman's death, however, probably will result in a further attempt to eliminate the bean ball.

Mays, it will be recalled, is the player whose sale by Boston to New York last year, and his subsequent suspension by President Ban Johnson of the American league, brought court injunctions and the factional fight in the American league which was not compromised until the league meeting here last February.

Outdoing Texas.

A boastful Texan, visiting Washington, was being shown the sights of the capital. Looking at a fine new building and being told by the guide it had been erected in three months, he replied: "That's nothing, we built one that big in sixty days."

Another large building completed in sixty days brought the remark: "Dallas could put it up in six weeks."

Finally they came to the Washington monument, and the Texan exclaimed: "Whew, what's that."

"Damfino," answered the guide. "It wasn't there yesterday." C. E. G.

800 METER RACE IN GREAT EVENT, 2 MEN FALLING

BY KENNETH REYNOLDS.

[Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.]

[Copyright: 1920.]

ANTWERP, Aug. 17.—The 800 meter run was the greatest of races of the Olympic games today. The entire pack set a terrific pace. Campbell, showing the old unconquerable Yale spirit, fell unconscious doing his best to finish the sprint down the home stretch. Eby of Chicago showed the best form in the race, yet watched Rudd of England too closely, and Hill slipped through for a hard win. Eby won a great second, and Rudd fell in his tracks at the tape for third. Eby was the runner who surprised the crowd.

By decision of the Olympic committee, Scholz of America gets fourth place in the 100 meter dash, run yesterday, putting Ali Kahn, the French entrant, fifth.

Nicklander, the Finn, is looked upon as winner of the shotput, though McDonald may win out, and is accounted sure of second place. Sol Butler of Dubuque college pulled a tendon in his first attempt in the broad jump, and made a brave effort to continue, but his leg would not bear up. This is a keen disappointment to the United States team, and Butler was looked upon by the coaches as certain winner.

In the first heat of the 110 meter hurdles semi-finals Barron of Philadelphia and Smith of Chicago outclassed the field. In the second heat Thomson of Canada, credited with a world's hurdle record, won a hard race from Murray.

U. championship committee, will be honorary referee, Col. J. V. Clinnin, referee, and Charles H. Wilson, starter.

Second round—L. E. Mahan and A. Yencken defeated J. S. Nichol and W. Rand, 6—0, 6—0, 1—6, 6—1; W. J. Johnston and S. W. Pearson defeated J. D. E. Jones and A. W. Jones, 6—2, 6—2, 5—7, 6—2; Willis Davis and Roland Roberts defeated W. M. Washburn and Dean Mathey, 6—3, 10—12, 6—4, 4—6, 6—3; F. B. Alexander and S. H. Voshell defeated W. E. Porter and R. Bidwell, 8—6, 6—1, 9—7, 6—4; W. T. Tilden and Charles Garland defeated T. N. Jayne and Philip Brain, 6—0, 6—0, 6—2.

FIVE CHICAGO STARS SURVIVE FIRST ROUND IN PRO GOLF TOURNEY

BY JOE DAVIS.

Sixteen matches in the first round of the professional golfers' association championship at the Flossmoor Country club yesterday left a sectionally well balanced field composed of eight western, six eastern, and two southern players.

Five Chicagoans, Tom Kennett of Olympia Fields, Bob MacDonald of Bob O' Link, Charles Mayo of Edgewater, Lawrence Ayton of Evanston, and Jock Hutchinson of Glen View advanced to the second round. Ayton won his place after the most gruelling match of the day, in which he defeated Charley Hoffner of Philadelphia on the thirty-ninth green. There Ayton sank a long putt for a win, 4-5.

Hoffner Leads in Morning.

Hoffner led 1 up at the turn in the morning. Each won two holes going out in the afternoon. Ayton won the tenth and Hoffner the thirteenth. At the seventeenth Hoffner, who was 1 up, played a cleek to be safe, but pulled to the rough. Ayton got a bad slice to a sand pit, but got well over the creek on his second. Hoffner made a poor second and lost, 6—5. They halved the home hole in fives.

The first two extra holes were halved in 5 and 3 and then Ayton sunk his long putt on the third green. This putt brought him against Jock Hutchinson, one of his boyhood pals at St. Andrews, in the second round. Cards of the afternoon round:

Extra holes—Ayton, 5, 3, 4; Hoffner, 5, 3, 5.

O'Hara Vanquishes Doyle.

Pat Doyle of Deal, N. J., and Peter O'Hara of Shackamaxon, in an Irish duel, had the next closest match of the day, the latter winning 1 up.

Doyle was woefully wild from the tees, and only his five recoveries kept him in the running. Doyle took the last three holes in the morning. He put an iron shot dead at the sixteenth hole for a birdie 3, holed a fifty foot putt at the seventeenth, and a ten footer at the eighteenth, squaring the match.

O'Hara putted poorly in the afternoon, and Doyle was one up at the fifteenth hole. At the seventeenth he went into the ditch and lost, 7—5. They halved the home hole, Doyle missing a six foot putt for a win.

MacDonald in Great Form.

Bob MacDonald, whose fine style has won him the title of the Vardon of the west, gave Young Leo Diegel few openings and when he did err Diegel followed suit.

In the morning MacDonald had 35—37—72, Diegel taking 36—37—73 and being 1 down. Bob won the first, fifth, and sixth holes in the afternoon and halved the rest. He was out in 36 and led 4 up. After a bad six at the tenth hole, Bob got birdie twos at the two short holes and had the match on ice. Diegel's weakness was being short on his approach putts.

Champion Jim Barnes and George Bowden, the Massachusetts open champion, had a close battle in the morning. Barnes was out in 34 and 1 up. Jim was 1 up at the sixteenth. They made a spectacular finish, each getting the home hole, 490 yards in three. Jim holed a twelve footer and his opponent a three footer. Barnes had 34—37—71 and Bowden 35—37—72.

Douglas Edgar was 2 down with five to play, but nosed out Pat O'Hara, 1 up. Harry Hampton had the best card of the day with a 70.

MISS PIERCE IN WINNING GAME

Miss Ernestine Pierce of Skokie led a field of fifty women golfers of north shore clubs at Westmoreland yesterday in a trial tournament to determine the makeup of the team which will represent the north district in the team tournament of the Women's Western Golf association in September, turning in a low gross of 91.

Indian Hill led in the point standing with 75 markers; Edgewater scored 70½; Skokie, 68; Exmoor, 63; Evanston, 56½; Glen View, 53; Westmoreland, 28, and Onwentsia, 6. The next and final meeting of the north district will be held at Glen View Aug. 30.

Mrs. E. E. Harwood of Olympia Fields led her team to victory in the final meeting of women golfers of the south side at Calumet, scoring an 83 for the eighteen hole round, one under par. Olympia Fields won the championship of the south side by the narrow margain of four points and earned the right to represent that district in the team matches of the Women's Western Golf association. Five teams played yesterday and scored as follows:

Miss Dorothy Higbie, 17 year old star of the Midlothian club, shot a 42—41—83 in a practice round at the Oak Park Country club.

SOLDIERS DROP HARD POLO TILT TO NORTH SHORE

The North Shore polo team won the second game of the series with Camp Grant, 4 to 2, yesterday at the Peterson avenue field. DRIVERS START PRACTICE SPINS AT ELGIN TODAY

Practice for the Elgin National road race will start today with nearly all entrants ready to participate. With the arrival of Ralph De Palma, who will pilot the same French machine which he drove at Indianapolis, all stars have reported at the Chicago Motor club, which is sponsoring the race.

RALPH DE PALMA. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

De Palma is a strong favorite for the victory. The Italian - American star proved at Indianapolis that he had one of the fastest cars in America and had it not been for ignition trouble would have been an easy victor. Since the Indianapolis race he has equipped his mount with a double ignition system.

Clifford Ireland of Peoria, long prominent in American Automobile association activities, has been named as referee of the race, with Fred J. Wagner of New York as starter. Charles P. Root of the Chicago Motor club is director of the race, while Harry P. Branstetter of Chicago is clerk of the course.

CHAPMAN DEAD; NATION'S FANS PAY HIM TRIBUTE

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Out of respect to the memory of Ray Chapman, shortstop of the Cleveland team, who died this morning from injuries received in yesterday's game, the game scheduled for this afternoon at the Polo grounds between the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees was postponed.

New York, Aug. 17.—Ray Chapman is dead. New York baseball fans paid final tribute tonight to the shortstop of the Cleveland American team, whose death resulted early today from the blow he received on the head from a pitched ball in the game between New York and Cleveland yesterday. Chapman's body was sent to Cleveland tonight.

During the day, while the player's body lay at the undertaker's rooms, hundreds of fans called to view it, and tonight a large crowd gathered at the Grand Central station. The assemblage acted as an escort as the coffin was placed on a trunk car that carried it through the station to the train. The fans formed an aisle near the gates and stood with bared heads as the car passed through.

Mays Breaks Down.

While the death of Chapman has caused sorrow among baseball magnates, players, and fans, none seemed so deeply grieved as Carl Mays, the New York pitcher, who delivered the ball that resulted in Chapman's death. After the game yesterday Mays went to his room and denied himself to all—even his intimate friends and teammates. He paced the floor during the night and when word came today that Chapman had died, the pitcher broke down completely and said he desired to give himself up to the district attorney at once.

On his visit to the district attorney's office, Mays made a statement to Assistant District Attorney John F. Joyce. The pitcher, eyes filled with tears and barely able to tell his story, said:

"It was a straight fast ball and not a curve. When Chapman came to bat I got the signal for a straight fast ball, which I delivered.

Dodges Too Late.

"It was a little too close and I saw Chapman duck his head in an effort to get out of the path of the ball. He was too late, however, and a second later he fell to the ground. It was the most regrettable incident of my career and I would give anything if I could undo what has happened."

After hearing Mays' story, Joyce said he thought Chapman's death was purely accidental, and the player was allowed to go.

Manager Tris Speaker of Cleveland, talking with Col. T. L. Huston, one of the owners of the Yankees, said the accident was unavoidable. "I do not hold Mays responsible in any way. I have been active in discouraging my players from holding Mays responsible, and in respect to Chapman's memory, as well as for the good of baseball, I hope all talk of this kind will stop. I can realize that Mays feels this thing as deeply as any man could, and I do not want to add anything to his burden."

Mrs. Chapman in Retirement.

At her hotel uptown Mrs. Chapman, who entered an uneven race with death last night, arriving from Cleveland several hours after her husband breathed his last, refused to receive the proffered consolation of her husband's friends and teammates. Except for Manager Speaker she would see no one, spending the day in her room.

Col. Huston of the Yankees tonight admitted there would be bitterness on the part of players as the result of Chapman's death, but said he had assurances from Tris Speaker that he would do all possible to prevent an attitude of antagonism becoming general among Chapman's old teammates.

Dispatches from Boston today said the Detroit and Boston players planned to draw up a petition asking for the banishment from organized baseball of Mays.

Players Advocate Action.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 17.—A decision to consult Manager Speaker of Cleveland before taking any action toward asking that Pitcher Mays be barred from further participation in organized ball, was reached by members of the Boston and Detroit teams after a meeting today. Several of the players expressed the opinion that some move of this kind should be made as a result of Ray Chapman's death.

Shortstop Bush of Detroit announced he was prepared to volunteer his services to the Cleveland club for the rest of the season if sanction of the league officials could be obtained. However, it was learned from Chicago tonight, with President Johnson as authority, that there is no way by which Bush could be transferred to Cleveland, as the time for trades or sales is past and the loan of a player never would be sanctioned by other clubs.

Plan Chapman Memorial.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 17.—All Cleveland baseball fans are stunned and mourning today over the death of Ray Chapman, of the Cleveland team, the greatest shortstop that ever wore a Cleveland uniform and one of the most popular players in the country. Mayor W. S. Fitzgerald today issued a proclamation calling upon Cleveland sport lovers to raise a Ray Chapman memorial fund to erect a suitable memorial at League park. The mayor also suggests that Sept. 3, the day the team returns home, be made a Ray Chapman memorial day.

SKETCH OF CHAPMAN'S CAREER

Carbondale, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Special.] Ray Chapman played his first baseball with an amateur team at Herrin, his home town, in 1909. John Brown of this city managed the team. During his first season in baseball he played a few games with local teams and his ability won the admiration of hundreds of fans.

The next season Brown sent Chapman to the professional ranks and he played with the Springfield club of the Three Eyes league, then with Davenport of the same league. Next Chapman joined Toledo of the American association, and while there he was bought by Cleveland, where he stayed nine years.

Chapman was, perhaps, the greatest and most popular ball player this section ever produced. Between seasons he played exhibition games for his friends here on various diamonds in this section.

SOX BLAME CHAPMAN DEATH ON FAILURE TO PENALIZE BEAN BALL

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—News of the death of Ray Chapman spread a pall of sadness over the spirits of the White Sox, who were so chipper last night. Chapman was very popular among ball players, and had many stanch friends and admirers among the Gleason squad, and the fatal accident to him was a severe shock to all of them. Even among the New York Giants, who are quartered at the same hotel with the Sox, there was a marked atmosphere of sorrow, although few of the National league players knew Chapman intimately.

As soon as the information was received Secretary Walter Clark, in the absence of Manager Gleason, who was at his residence here, sent a telegram to Manager Speaker of the Cleveland club, telling him that every White Sox player shared in his sorrow over the death of Chapman and expressing sincerest sympathy for his loss.

Floral Pieces Sent to Home.

Ray Schalk, in behalf of the White Sox, wired a friend in Cleveland to send a floral piece to the Chapman home for the funeral as a mark of respect from the Chicago players. Secretary McCready of the Baseball Writers' association, telegraphed to Cleveland to have flowers sent in token of the esteem in which the shortstop was held by all the writers of the country.

In all the conversation among the players there was not a hint of what the accident means to the White Sox in the pennant race, although unquestionably it will weaken both their contenders for the flag. Only deep sorrow for the loss of a great player was to be heard, varied occasionaly with a bit of criticism for American league officials and umpires for not having compelled Carl Mays to break himself of the habit of hitting batsmen by penalizing him more severely for doing it.

Mays Leads in Hit Batsmen.

It was pointed out that for years Mays has led all pitchers in both leagues in the number of batsmen hit, and that there was a remedy at the disposal of the umpires in the rule against the "bean ball," if it had been enforced.

JOHNSON LAUDS INDIANS' STAR

President Ban Johnson of the American league issued a statement yesterday in appreciation of the baseball career of Ray Chapman.

"Ray Chapman was a splendid character," Mr. Johnson said. "In all the years he was identified with the American league he was loved and respected by every one in the profession. Clean, wholesome, and manly, he contributed to the high standard of baseball by his deportment on the field. In the period of his connection with the Cleveland team there never was occasion for censure by club officials or the executive officers of the league.

"His tragic death will be keenly deplored by his comrades in the profession and the many thousands who have been thrilled by his brilliant performance on the field. In the death of Ray Chapman the national game has lost one of its greatest stars and a player who was not excelled for his many virtues."

Reds Show Former Spirit and Defeat Cubs in Final, 3 to 2

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Cincinnati's proud but struggling world's champion Reds nosed the humble Cubs out of the final game of the series at the north side yesterday and thereby regained the lead in the National league flag race. The count was 3 to 2 after an exciting contest featured by long distance base hits.

HOD ELLER. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Jim Vaughn hooked up in a slab battle with Hod Eller. Hod hasn't been exceptionally brilliant since he trimmed the White Sox so neatly and precisely last fall in a couple of combats, but on this occasion he displayed much the same style he showed nearly a year ago. The "shine" ball is supposed to be barred, but Hod had something that was shooting and sailing over the pan with deadly effect. He allowed only six swats, one being a homer by Davy Robertson with one mate on the runway. He fanned nine men and he looked awful fast.

Slip Wins for Reds.

Vaughn was hurling in his usual form, though he might have been a trifle careless on one or two occasions. Even then he might have won his fight except for one slip in his support, the only slip of the afternoon. It helped in the production of one of the tallies, and that one was just enough to win for the champions. In the eighth inning Dode Paskert attempted a shot from center field to second base when there was a chance to catch a runner who had gone over the bag. The hasty shot was a bit bad and got away from Terry and let the runner advance to third from where he got in on a scratchy infield hit.

With due respect to Pat Moran's men, it should be said that they showed more spirit and fight in this game than in any of the other three. For the first time during the series they played baseball as one would expect of a team in a pennant fight. No chances either in offense or defense were overlooked, and they made the most of every opening they had. A continuance of such a brand of baseball will keep them in first place in spite of any brilliant things the Brooklyn Robins and the New York Giants may do.

Two base hits—Groh, Roush, Robertson, Flack, Sicking, Allen. Home run—Robertson. Struck out—Vaughn, 3; Eller, 9. Hit by pitcher—Vaughn, Duncan. Passed ball—Allen. Time—1:46. Umpires—O'Day and Quigley.

Groh started the deadly attack by clouting a two bagger before any one realized the ball game was on. Daubert's bunt put him on third and Roush's sacrifice fly brought him home. Then it was a fight for the Cubs to get a run to tie the count and also to hold the champions from further successful attacks.

It looked like the battle was settled in the eighth when the Reds got another one they didn't deserve. With one gone Eller singled over second and so did Groh. Eller ran over second on Groh's swat and Paskert pegged a hot one to second trying to pick him off. The ball was low and got away from Terry, and Eller went on to third, barely making it. Daubert bounced a high one off the plate toward third and beat it for a single, letting Eller get home. Vaughn then fanned Roush and Duncan rolled out.

Robertson's Homer Ties Score.

Flack opened the eighth for the Cubs with a drive against the right wall for two sacks and went to third on Terry's bunt, after which Robertson poled his homer, a beauty drive over the wall in right center, and the score was tied.

In the ninth after Vaughn had retired Kopf and Neale young Mr. Sicking landed on one for a drive to right center for two sacks and Nick Allen came right up and drove another double to the same spot, Sicking scoring the run needed to win.

Twombly went in as pinch hitter in the last of the ninth for Herzog and delivered a single after one was out, but no one could bat him around.

SAYS "BEANING" IS AN ACCIDENT

While members of the world's champion Reds were discussing the fate of Ray Chapman yesterday, "Dutch" Ruether, premier pitcher of the team, brought up the accident of last Saturday at the north side, when he hit Charley Herzog on the head.

"That ball hit 'Herzy' just above the temple and glanced off, or I believe it might have killed him," he said. "It wasn't a bean ball, though. I was wild, and it acted like a sailer. If I ever killed a fellow with a pitched ball I would throw away my shoes and glove. I couldn't play another game."

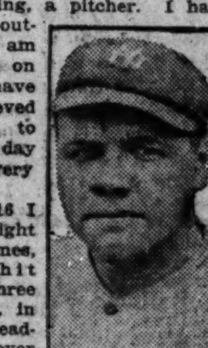
YEAR 1918 ENDS RUTH'S CAREER AS SLAB MAN

Autobiography of Babe Ruth. Chapter X.

BY BABE RUTH.

[Copyright: 1920: By United News.]

As far as we have gone I am still, strictly speaking, a pitcher. I have done some outfielding and am taking a turn on first, but I have not yet achieved my ambition to play every day and bat every day.



BABE RUTH.

Now, in 1916 I had pitched eight shutout games, two two-hit games, and three of three hits, in winning my leading position over the American league twirlers. In the preceding year, out of thirty-two games pitched, I turned in only one shutout, one two-hit game, and a three-hit contest in accumulating an average of 2.44 earned runs per game. This placed me far down in the pitching roster.

Does More and More Batting.

But in 1917 I was getting more work in the outfield, and consequently more exercise with the stick. So I didn't mind finishing the season as No. 9 among the hurlers, because I stood fifth in the batting list.

The next season was the one in which I began to figure as a real first baseman and outfielder with the thirteen games at No. 1 corner and fifty-eight in the meadow. I pitched only twenty games, turning in a five inning affair in which I got credit for a shut out, and also a three hit game.

But the batting eye was getting on the ball at last. The home runs were beginning to rattle off the old ash, and the newspapers started taking notice of me as a slugger. I got only eleven that year, dividing honors with Walker of the Athletics, but I had eleven three baggers, too, and twenty-six two base hits, scoring fifty of the 474 runs made by the Red Sox in winning their second pennant in three years.

Meets Cubs in World Series.

We went out to Chicago to open the world's series Sept. 4, 1918. With Vaughn "right" for the Cubs both teams played flawlessly, but we scored a run in the fourth inning, which carried the day.

In the fourth game of the series, after I breezed along seven full innings without allowing a man to cross the plate, making a total of twenty-nine consecutive sessions of shutout ball, they yanked me off the mound in the ninth and Joe Bush went in and stopped the Cubs.

I was about to say good-by to the mound, for this was the last time I regarded myself as a regular pitcher. It is true that I hurled seventeen games in the following season, 1919, but it was to be Babe Ruth, outfielder, after this.

By Mae Tinée.

Robert Louis Stevenson wrote a story about a man who died a thousand deaths through fear, and called it "The Pavilion on the Links." Maurice Tourneur took the story, adapted it to picture uses and named it "The White Circle." The author was a great one. The producer is a clever one. "The White Circle" is a good picture.

Anyone who has read and loved Stevenson is apt to be a bit persnickety regarding anything that is done with any of his works. It seems to me, though, that Mr. Tourneur has admirably preserved the atmosphere of bleak mystery that permeated the story.

The network of thrills, horrors, hot passions, and golden romance is woven about an aged banker. A trusted member of an Italian society the Carbonari, he has gambled away funds left in his care. The leaders of the Carbonari, deeming swift death too good for him, doom him to a life lived in constant fear of death. Where he goes their symbol, a white circle, follows him. Hide as he may try, he is always made aware the eye of the society is upon him. His days are long and wretched. His nights are years of torture during which his fevered brain pictures death upon death that may be his.

Two men who love the daughter who goes with him into exile, feature largely in the tale. And little Wesley Barry is vurr' much there!

London, shrouded in mystery, Scottish fen and rockbound coast, wonderfully portrayed, all bring home to you the story which, as given you in screen form, by a cast that knows its business and a director who knows his, commands your rapt attention.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I want to be the medium through which the friend in deed and the friend in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy, and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be only too happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send parcels to The Tribune, but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

Needs Baby Furniture.

"I am in need of baby furniture for my 10 weeks old baby. Bed, high chair, and buggy chiefly. I am still using basin for baby's bath. These things are so expensive. If some one who has no further use for them would let me have them I would be very grateful.

"MRS. R. B."

There are somewhere, I know, an outgrown crib and a high chair for this wee tad.

DORIS BLAKE'S ANSWERS

How to Win a Man.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am deeply in love with a young man, and don't know how to win him, so I ask you to please tell me what I could do to win or forget him. L. A."

If I could manufacture a few good rules on how to win a man I would be a Mrs. Croesus in no time. But I cannot do it. You make a few rules which would seem to apply generally, and along comes Mr. Cupid and knocks the bottom clean out of your reasoning with a matchmaking that defies all rules. I might say: Be kind to him; be sympathetic; show a confidence in him; feed him flattery; let him think he is a human marvel; and maybe he would turn right around and marry a girl who showed not a single trait of the kind toward him. But that's about the best advise I have to offer, except to add to make yourself as personally attractive as possible.

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Sacque cloth and sash is pretty much all we need to the present costume. As for the skirt, it is apt to be partially concealed by sashes. These are used in all guises, but chiefly to effect fullness either at the hips or in the back. A French frock employs the taffeta sash of a lace frock to become one-half of the bodice—sleeve and all. Here a frock of fine white silk muslin and embroidered white tulle is made distinctive by this double barreled sash of French blue tulle.

Chicken Tuberculosis

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Up and down the Mississippi river and stretching back into the prairies for many miles county agents are finding tuberculosis in chickens and are making a serious attempt to check the spreading of this disease wherever outbreaks occur. Of course, they are not able to examine every flock. Owners whose chickens die without apparent cause are advised to notify the farm bureau in their locality. Many county agents have asked farmers to send in livers of dead birds for examination. Signs of the disease are likely to show in this organ.

In warning against the danger of the disease spreading government poultry specialists say:

"Tuberculosis of fowls is a chronic, contagious disease characterized by the development of nodules called tubercles in various organs of the body, but most frequently in the liver, spleen, and intestines. It is readily communicated to most species of birds and to several species of mammals, but it is almost impossible to communicate the tuberculosis of man and cattle to fowls."

When tuberculosis is found in your flock the most practical recommendation made, and the least expensive and safest in the end, is to kill every fowl in the yard. This is a radical treatment, and apparently a wasteful way to handle such an outbreak, but it is the only sure way.

Do not stop with destroying the flock. The yards must be disinfected. Runs and buildings should not be used for several weeks, windows and doors should be opened and floors exposed to the sunlight for a month before using again. In fact, it is best to use new grounds wherever possible.

Poultry experts say experiments have proved that the eggs of the diseased birds frequently contain the tuberculosis germ, and young chicks hatched from such infected eggs are diseased.

Traffic Club's Outing.

Golf, baseball, bridge, five hundred, dancing and dinner will be the amusement program of the Traffic club of Chicago for its outing at the Midlothian Country club Friday. Mrs. W. D. Hurlburt and Mrs. E. L. Dalton will be hostesses of the bridge and five hundred card games. The outing is under auspices of the sports and pastimes committee of the club, with F. W. Pullen, chairman, and George Low, secretary.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

LOUISE: BORAX IN SUCH quantities as a handful to a half bowl of water is sure to ruin your hair in a short time. Just a pinch in the water is all that should ever be used. It makes the hair dry and brittle. To eliminate the oiliness use salt. You may rub it dry on to the scalp or with equal parts salt and water massage the scalp with it two or three times a week. Then brush the hair thoroughly. The salt is good for the hair anyway.

Oliver-Yarrington Nuptials a Notable Harbor Point Event

Petoskey, Mich., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—James Oliver, vice president of the Oliver Plow Manufacturing company of South Bend, was married this afternoon to Miss Louise P. Yarrington of Richmond, Va., at the summer home of Mr. Oliver's sister, Mrs. C. Frederick Cunningham, at Harbor Point. Young Oliver is the son of Joseph B. Oliver and the grandson of the late James Oliver, who founded the plow corporation and left a fortune of many millions.

Though a quiet affair, the wedding was, perhaps, the most important event of the sort Harbor Point has seen since the famous Catherine Barker-Howard Spaulding wedding of some years ago.

Among those from South Bend at the wedding were the bridegroom's sister and parents, W. A. Weed of the Oliver company, Joseph A. Coquillard and Mrs. M. V. Beiger. Among others present at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph De Lorenzi Jr. of South Bend, at whose cottage at Edgewater, Petoskey, Miss Yarrington has been a guest.

The bride was a classmate of Mrs. De Lorenzi at Wilson college, Chambersburg, Pa., and Mr. Oliver met her at the De Lorenzi home in South Bend several years ago.

Miss Yarrington only recently returned from overseas, where she did Y. M. C. A. work throughout France and was stationed for fifteen months at Coblenz, Germany.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Phillip Andover academy, class of 1905.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver will motor to Richmond for a visit at the Yarrington home and then sail for South America to remain until early winter, when they will go to Europe, returning next spring.

Berinece, looking at the animals in the park, saw the stork for the first time. She stood and stared and the bird happened to be staring at her just as hard. Berinece turned around to her father and said, "Look, papa, the stork is trying to see if he remembers me yet." P. W. L.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Endive Sauce and Greens.

The chief dish of a luncheon menu described in a current bit of fiction was "truite saumonee, sauce verte," or salmon trout with green sauce. A green sauce is often made of exactly the same pot herbs as those cooked in accompaniment with the boiled meat of the humble. This fact is only one of the many proofs to be found that certain foods are mainly enjoyed by the humblest and those with most money.

A green sauce is only a small quantity of greens, chopped fine, a bit wet with butter or cream, and seasoned with great care. New onion tops, chervil, a bit of lettuce, etc., may make up the mixture, but certain green things have so much of character that no others are needed in addition to give that tone which is appreciated with fish, say a nice slice of broiled salmon or broiled oysters, etc.

Curly endive is one of these superior greens. There are various reasons why we should serve it in small or sauce-like quantities. Growing it yourself you are likely to feel rather niggardly as you pull a great head. You pay well for it if you buy. But the most important reason for serving it in small quantities is that it is just right so. A small portion of its bitter is enough, although that bitter be modified to savoriness with butter and seasonings.

Pick off the outer and imperfect leaves of a head, pare the root, wash thoroughly, drop into boiling water for five or ten minutes—ten if you do not like the bitter taste—drain, and pour over cold water, cook tender in boiling salted water, drain, and chop fine, heat up with butter, a light seasoning of nutmeg and salt, if necessary, and a dust of pepper.

I call this, served on small buttered and sliced beets, a garden pastel. I have grown both vegetables—most proud of it. Nothing in the garden looks more prosperous than the endive.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscript returned.

Only a Movie.

I am fond of Wedgwood dishes, and have a large collection of unusual pieces.

One evening I saw the heroine of a motion picture play pick up a beautiful English vase and throw it on the floor.

Horrified, I forgot where I was and unconsciously cried out:

"Don't break it—it's Wedgwood!" M. R.

Furniture at Mandel Brothers

Building to a climax a selling event more remarkable than any hitherto consummated on our furniture floor—the

$1,000,000 August sale

—a broader choice of better furniture at greater savings than in any prior August here. So appreciative—so enthusiastic—was Chicago's recognition, that now, at midmonth, the high sales record of the whole of last August is broken.

The comprehensiveness of the stocks —including furniture of every desired design, from plain pieces for the cottage, through all the "periods" to the fine museum types for the mansion—is one principal reason why hundreds of hard-to-please customers are satisfying their furniture requirements here.

Furniture floor—the seventh.

The magnitude of the August savings

—ranging to one-third—provide the final, convincing reason why you should shop here today—for "at Mandel's," in August, you can buy furniture best.

The Italian console table pictured above is of handsomely undercut, hand carved walnut and is fitted with marble top. The August sale price is moderate for such furniture de luxe—$449.

The polychrome mirror sketched is in a design to harmonize with the table, and is as interestingly priced at $132.

Lord Baltimore living room suite —illustrated at right—is characterized by distinction of design and superiority of construction, and is a notable achievement in lasting luxury and elegance. Its softness and sturdy durability result from the use of the best of materials by the most skillful of upholsterers. The graceful lines will add charm and refinement to the most artistic salon, with all the comfort of less artistically made pieces.

We bought liberally, months ago, in a lower market —and, through the sheer volume of our orders, secured still greater concessions from important manufacturers. Much of this furniture is but now arriving—belated for weeks in transit.

A wide selection of upholstery coverings

—velours, mohairs and tapestries—is a decided meritorious feature of the August furniture sale—enabling you to have practically any model you may select in upholstered furniture, covered with the fabric of your own choice.

The three superb specials illustrated are worth your visit to the store to view—magnificently typical as they are of the art, the value, of this thirty-first annual furniture sale. And, once here, you will see hundreds more pieces, equally special—equally worthy your admiration—and perhaps still better suited to your needs.

Davenport, uncovered, with down cushions, $384; arm chair to match, $216

Davenport, uncovered, with spring filled cushions, $330. Arm chair to match, $207. Available also in a wide choice of velour, mohair and tapestry coverings, and with reversible cushions, at various prices.

10-piece solid walnut dining suite for $1370—illustrated on the right

This is an exquisite reproduction of an early English period design, with modifications that make it adaptable for the modern American home. THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 18, 1920.

PACINI'S REVELS HIDDEN TO GUARD OTHERS, CHARGE

Alderman, Police Head, Open New Inquiry.

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Investigation of the death of Charles Pacini, wealthy Kenosha theater owner, was taken out of the hands of the police tonight by Ald. Daniel Wachs and H. B. Robinson, head of the city police and fire committee.

They announced that an independent inquiry would be launched "as a result of police inactivity and the refusal of the coroner to hold an inquest."

It had developed during the day that strong political influence was being brought to bear to shield the names of men and women socially and politically prominent who had taken part in midnight parties held in Pacini's bachelor apartments over one of his theaters. Some of the parties were held just before he was shot to death in a revolver duel.

Importance is attached by the aldermen to the identification of the persons at these parties, because one theory of the murder is that the theater man was killed by a husband or suitor of one of the women with whom he was friendly.

Fail to Question Women.

Other reasons assigned by Ald. Wachs and Chairman Robinson for authorizing the independent investigation were:

Neither Mrs. Alice Davenport nor Mrs. Agnes O'Brien, the two divorcées, who were with Pacini shortly before his death, has been questioned by Chief of Police Owen O'Hare.

Kenosha's only two detectives were sent on a sudden vacation Sunday morning, following the shooting.

Pacini's apartment has been closed and barred to every one, including the police and coroner's office, and no official investigation of his letters and papers has been made.

Pacini contributed generously to campaign funds and was a personal and political friend of several high city officials.

Hunt Divorced Husband.

Meanwhile search turned to Chicago for George Davenport, divorced husband of one of Pacini's employés, who said to have threatened "to get" the theater man. This clew was strengthened by a woman witness, who told of seeing the alleged slayer escape in an automobile with two companions. They drove towards Chicago at racing speed, she said.

Davenport, a one-legged man, in 1917 conducted a cigar store and poolroom at 1906 West Madison street. He is the divorced husband of Mrs. Alice Davenport, one of Pacini's ticket takers, from the movie proprietor escorted to her home a few moments before he was shot.

Lawyer Reveals Threat.

Davenport's name was given to Chief of Police Owen O'Hare by Pacini's attorney, Calvin Stewart, who a few years ago represented Davenport in a damage suit against a railroad.

Shortly after his divorce Davenport had lost his leg in a railroad accident and collected a large amount as damages. His former wife, hearing of this brought suit for back alimony and forced him to pay her $500. According to Stewart, Davenport at the time charged Pacini with being behind his wife's suit and threatened to even the score with the theater man at the first opportunity.

Mrs. Joseph Ryan, who lives next door to the garage, told the police she had seen a man leap into a car and drive toward Chicago immediately after the shooting last Saturday night. Any investigation into Pacini's life, his habits, his recent associates, or his alleged affairs with women has been practically blocked by his political friends, some of whom may have been guests at his parties, it is charged.

No Inquest to Be Held.

In the first place, no inquest is to be held into his death. Under the law of Wisconsin a coroner may or may not hold an inquest, as he sees fit. The Pacini bachelor apartment has been locked, and not even the police will be permitted to enter it in search of clews until after the funeral on Saturday. Neither Mrs. Davenport nor Mrs. Agnes O'Brien, the other employee whom Pacini drove home in his car Saturday night, will be questioned until after the funeral.

Officials say these steps are being taken out of respect for the memory of Pacini.

Four Lake Forest girls are going to make Los Angeles their home and they intend to work their way to the coast.

The girls are Gladys Spellman, who works in a real estate office; Esther Conway, a postal clerk; Rhea Harrington, a milliner, and Irene Atteridge, who operates a billing machine. They are members of the Sayonara club—which has but eight members—and graduates of Deerfield-Shields High school.

They leave Oct. 1 and will seek work in Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake City, and San Francisco. Each will try to save up railroad fare to the next stopping point. They will be given a farewell reception and dance Sept. 3.

HEAP OF ASHES, SLAP FOR CHILD, STIR DUEL, DEATH

A neighbors' quarrel over the disposition of some ashes led yesterday to a shotgun duel and the death of Michael Lisenderella of 816 Milton avenue.

In a vacant plot just south of Philip Celano's flat at 822 Milton avenue the small son of Lisenderella was emptying ashes on a rubbish heap. Mrs. Rosie Celano objected. There was the sound of a slap. Lisenderella, shotgun in hand, rushed out of his grocery. He pointed the weapon up the stairs of the Celano home and fired while behind him stood his 19 year old son, Joseph, armed with a revolver.

PHILLIP CELANO.

Someone returned the fire from the Celano home. The elder Lisenderella fell.

The police found Joe struggling with a mob that had restrained him from continuing the battle, while his father was dying from a wound in the abdomen.

At the Chicago Polyclinic hospital the elder Lisenderella identified Phillip Celano as his assailant before he died.

Policeman's Bullet Fatal to Young Gunman

Edward W. (Eddie) Burgess, 24 year old gunman, rooming at 3238 Normal avenue, died in the county hospital shortly after noon yesterday. He was shot by Policeman William Evans of the Deering street station last Saturday night. Evans came upon Burgess as he was attempting to hold up two men.

POLICE ACCUSED AFTER $500,000 BOOZE VANISHES

Guarded Original Transfer, Lawyer Charges.

An inventory of the Continental warehouse at West Roosevelt road and Canal street completed yesterday revealed that 10,000 gallons of whisky valued at about $500,000, which had been stored there by Michael J. Clancy, alleged leader of a $1,000,000 whisky ring, had disappeared.

Records showed that during July 12,143 gallons of whisky had been received at the warehouse. Despite the fact that no sales have been authorized by prohibition agents, only 2,106 gallons could be accounted by the inventory.

The records were produced in evidence when Clancy and five others were arraigned before Commissioner Mason on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. All were held to the federal grand jury except Clancy, whose case was continued.

Lost through "Robberies."

Attorney Timothy J. Fell, who appeared for Clancy, asked the delay to give him time to investigate the shortage of liquor at the Continental warehouse. Much of the whisky had been lost, he said, he believed, through robberies.

"Why," said Mr. Fell, "500 gallons were lost when the liquor was first moved from the Grommes & Ulrich warehouse to 400 West Kinzie street, a matter of only a few blocks. They had police protection, too."

"Did I understand you to say," broke in Assistant District Attorney John J. Kelly, "that the police connived to aid the burglars in robbing the truck loads of liquor?"

Police Guarding Liquor.

"That's the way it seems," answered Fell. "The police had been procured when Clancy asked to have the liquor removed. They were guarding the liquor when the trucks were burglarized."

Federal authorities believe that practically all the $1,000,000 stock of whisky which was purchased by Clancy from Grommes & Ulrich in June has been distributed to saloons or lost in robberies. An investigation is being conducted to find out just how much is left.

FIGHT WET CONGRESS.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—Although both Republican and Democratic parties may be succeeding in sidestepping the prohibition issue in the campaign in so far as the presidency is concerned, prohibition leaders are seeing to it that there can be no escaping the issue in congressional contests throughout the country.

The Anti-Saloon league jumped into the fight today with a declaration from its general counsel, Wayne B. Wheeler, who said:

"The prohibition issue in the campaign will center on congress instead of the presidency."

Asked about candidates for president, Mr. Wheeler said:

"The league will issue a bulletin giving the records and utterances of the presidential candidates on this question, but will make no indorsements. The voters will be able to reach their own conclusions when this information is in their hands."

Dry Leader Peeved.

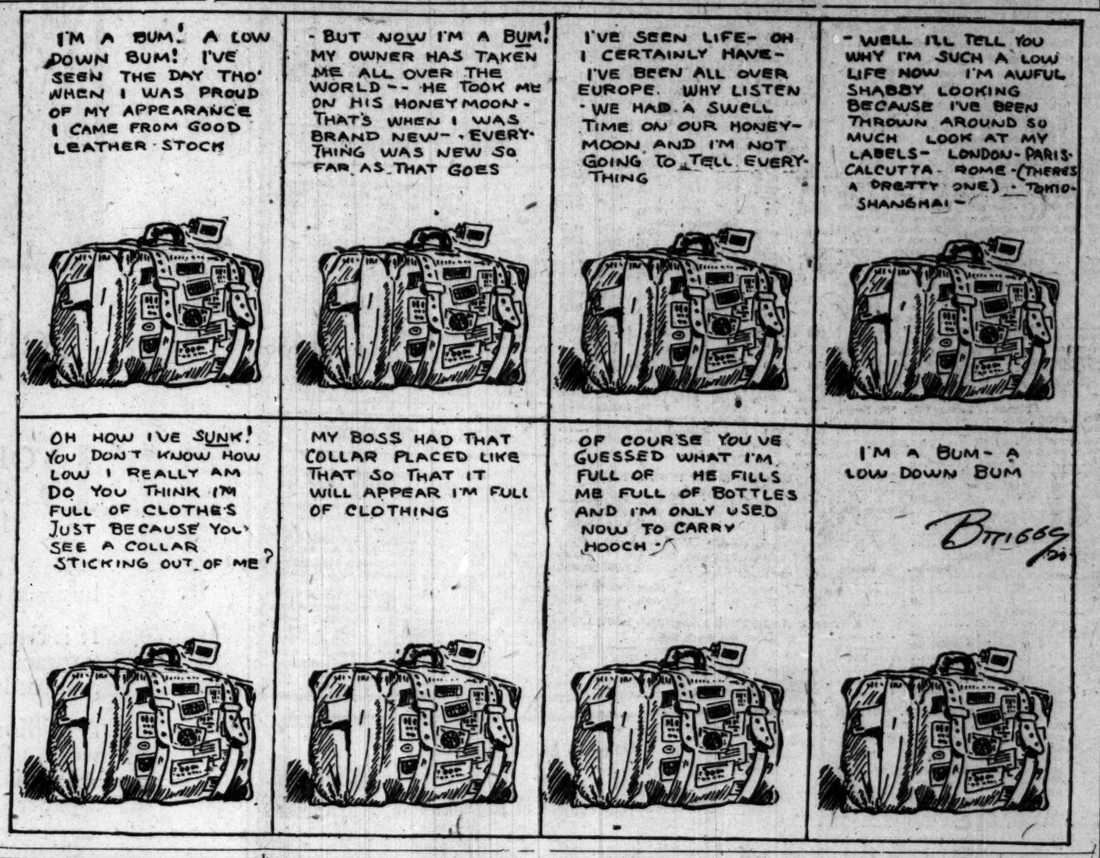
William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of New York, has sent a protest to Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, over the committee's action in assigning Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., to trail his kinsman, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"The pro-brewery record of the present bearer of the name of Theodore Roosevelt," Mr. Anderson tells Chairman Hays, "will get you some wet votes in wet centers, if that is what you want. But he will not gain anything for you in the dry states of the west and south, where his father was strongest."

Former Blackstone 'Phone Girl Is Held as Forger

A quarrel with her husband, his desertion of herself and baby, and a penniless existence with her mother, who had nothing to offer but a home, were the excuses for her downfall, made yesterday by pretty 19 year old Agnes Furey, lately telephone operator at the Blackstone hotel, to Judge McKinney in the East Chicago avenue court. She was arraigned on a charge of forgery and bound over to the grand jury under $1,000 bonds.

DEGENERATION OF A SUITCASE



CAPT. HOWARD QUITS AS DRY LAW CHIEF; WILL ENTER POLITICS

Capt. Hubert E. Howard, federal prohibition director for Illinois, announced yesterday that he had sent in his resignation, effective Sept. 1, and that officials at Washington have appointed R. W. Stone, his chief assistant, in his place.

CAPT. HUBERT E. HOWARD.

Capt. Howard denied reports he had resigned because of political pressure exerted by liquor men who resented his strict enforcement of the prohibition act.

"I wish to return to the private practice of law and to enter politics this fall," he said.

"Capt. Howard took the office," said District Attorney Clyne, "to organize it and get it in working order, and this he has accomplished. He feels that he cannot longer afford to neglect his law practice, and that is the sole reason for his giving up the prohibition enforcement work."

Capt. Howard is one of three brothers, sons of Col. E. A. Howard of the Burlington railroad, who all saw active service in France.

Capt. Howard has been in charge ever since the director's office was created on Jan. 17. Mr. Stone has been in the government employ five years.

CROWE, HOYNE, CLASH ON VOTE FRAUD COLLAPSE

Collapse of the seventh vote fraud case to be put on trial in the Criminal court yesterday caused the state's attorney's office to be censured by Chief Justice Robert E. Crowe. The court declared that he had warned Mr. Hoyne's office not to bring any more cases into court unless he had evidence enough to warrant their trial. Hoyne replied that he would bring no more election cases before Judge Crowe as long as the latter is a candidate for the nomination for state's attorney.

Three judges and a clerk of the Twentieth precinct of the Fourth ward who had served during the election of Nov. 6, 1918, were to be tried in the case that collapsed.

IRENE M'AULIFF ELOPES, BECOMES MRS. INKS NO. 3

Divorce May Cut Knot; Trial to Go On.

Miss Irene McAuliff, former postmistress at Franklin Park, who flitted to Cleveland last January with one Merle, or Merl, or Murl, or Merrill Inks, journeyed to Crown Point, Ind., with him yesterday and became Mrs. Inks III.

MRS. IRENE INKS.

Both the woman and the man have been indicted since the first hegira—but their marriage will make no difference in the prosecution, according to federal authorities. Each can be compelled to testify against the other, because Mrs. Inks II. obtained a divorce only last month, and under the Illinois law the third marriage is illegal.

The postoffice officials found a shortage of $13,000 in the Franklin Park postoffice after the pair had fled, but both fugitives when arrested declared they had nothing to do with the theft of the money.

MERRILL INKS.

They were placed in jail, but Miss McAuliff's brothers, Carrol and Joseph, effected her release on bonds. She disappeared, however, and last April the brothers asked Chief of Detectives Mooney to find her. When she was found they surrendered her and she was placed in the Woodstock jail.

Nothing more was heard of her until yesterday. She could not be reached last night.

The second Mrs. Inks in her bill for divorce named Miss McAuliff and another woman.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

Today's Question.

What is the best moving picture you ever saw.

Where Asked.

In Dearborn street between Adams and Quincy streets.

The Answers.

Miss Lois Sherman, 7310 Kingston avenue: The best one I have seen is "On With the Dance" with Mae Murray. The acting was exquisite and the plot was wonderful. Some of the most enjoyable moments I ever had at a "movie" was during that showing.

F. C. Houghton, 5205 Woodlawn avenue, salesman: "Humoresque" is about the best I have had the pleasure of seeing. It has a strong appeal to all the better qualities in human beings and expresses many things that a man has thought about, but never spoken of.

Miss Margaret High, Waynesburg, Pa.: I do not remember the name of the show, but it was one in which Miss Anita Stewart acted. She got everybody in wrong by going to the beach in another girls clothing, I remember. She is so full of life and always makes one feel happy.

J. Will Brewer, 35 South Dearborn street, designer: "The Spoilers" with Farnum was the best. Rex Beach has written a stirring plot—one of the best I've seen—Farnum's acting was superb. There was so much scenic beauty in every setting. The fight was one of Farnum's best. I don't think there was any make-believe about that.

Miss Della Meyer, 1400 North La Salle street, actress: The best movie I have seen is the "Birth of a Nation." That play aroused every bit of enthusiasm and every bit of patriotism a person has. The story was wonderful and full of stirring incidents, heart appeals and fine acting.

JURY'S VERDICT CLEARS POLICE.

Frank Breen, 28 years old, of 1925 West Madison street, hanged himself, a coroner's jury decided yesterday. Breen was arrested by Rivert Forest police, charged with burglary, and hanged himself in his cell. The jury declared there was no foundation for the report he was brutally treated by the police.

CRANE JR. MUST GET ALONG WITH HIS $35 A WEEK

Bank Refuses Claim for $11,000.

Herbert P. Crane Jr., son of the Chicago and St. Charles man whose troubles with his Costa Rican bride made such a hole in the news print supply, will have to continue existence at $35 a week for another month at least. The son's effort yesterday to obtain money which he claims is being withheld from him were temporarily unsuccessful.

Crane appeared in the office of Master in Chancery Ninian H. Welch with Attorney R. H. Colby. The latter asserted that the Merchants Loan and Trust company was arbitrarily keeping $11,000 from young Crane at the bidding of his father. He asked that the money be turned over to his client immediately.

Objects for Bank.

Attorney B. W. Rosenstone, representing the bank, objected that the matter could not be forced to trial during the vacation season.

"All right," replied Mr. Colby, "if you'll release a substantial portion of this man's funds, I'll consent to a continuance. His creditors are pressing him, and he's really in distress."

Mr. Rosenstone refused to promise.

"I understand that the elder Mr. Crane still has a fatherly interest in his son," he remarked a moment later. The son sniffed derisively.

Case Is Continued.

Master in Chancery Welch set the hearing for Sept. 20. Meanwhile the whereabouts of Mr. Crane Sr. remains a mystery. His son said he understood he was somewhere in the east.

Evanston Hotel Adopts Jazz Shine Parlor Idea

Northwestern university co-eds will have their jazz dance music and this has caused Robert Logan to move his shoeshining emporium from the rear of Karl Steinkamp's cigar store on Davis street to the North Shore hotel.

The co-eds went to the youth's shining parlor because while waiting to have their shoes polished they could dance on the smooth floor to the tune of various Victrola records. The cigar store quickly became a popular meeting place and the owners of the hotel yesterday opened a spacious room on the main floor as a combination dance hall and shoe shining shop with the young Mr. Logan in charge.

DRISCOLL, WORTH $250,000, QUITS AS FIRE CHIEF

City's Richest Fireman Served 39 Years.

Battalion Chief Michael R. Driscoll, reputed one of the richest firemen in the Chicago, resigned from the city fire department yesterday after thirty-nine years of service.

MICHAEL R. DRISCOLL.

For twenty-five years Driscoll was a battalion chief in the South Chicago district. Much of his fortune, which is said to approach the $250,000 mark, was made in buying and selling South Chicago real estate.

Fortune Doubles in Fifteen Years.

Fifteen years ago his wealth was estimated at $100,000 and he cheerfully admitted he was the wealthiest member of the fire department. Since that time, he said last night, his fortune has more than doubled.

In 1881 Driscoll was clipping the rough edges off the stones to be used in the construction of the old Cook county courthouse. His pay was $1.50 a day. A few months later he joined the fire department with former Fire Chief James Horan. He "stepped up" rapidly, becoming a battalion chief in 1896.

CHARLES J. BERKERY.

"I'm going to spend my time looking after my real estate interest from now on," he said. "I've been through all the large fires, and feel I have earned a rest. Of late my health has been failing a little."

Berkery His Successor.

Driscoll's resignation caused Acting Chief Buckley to promote Capt. Charles J. Berkery to the rank of battalion chief to fill Driscoll's shoes. Berkery is a survivor of the stockyards fire at which former Chief Horan met death.

FOUR DEATHS IN DAY AUTO ACCIDENTS' TOLL

Fritz Solitz, 60 years old, of 1362 Ingraham avenue, was knocked down and instantly killed by an automobile in front of 1212 North Ashland avenue yesterday. The automobile was driven and owned by Stanley Colecink of 6343 Yale avenue. The drivor was not held.

Edward Nelson, 60 years old, of 1029 Cleveland street, Evanston, died in the St. Francis hospital in Evanston yesterday of injuries suffered Aug. 11 when he was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Benjamin Zucker of Two Rivers, Wis.

Robert Mott, 7 years old, of 7144 Bennett avenue, died yesterday in the South Shore hospital of injuries incurred when he was run over by a motor truck at Seventy-second street and Bennett avenue yesterday morning.

Miss Olga Jubates, 35 years old, of 3810 Lowe avenue, died yesterday in the Washington Park hospital from injuries suffered Aug. 11.

EVANSTON PLEA TO SPARE NOTED TREE UNHEEDED

Evanston residents are indignant at the order of Mayor Harry P. Pearsons to destroy an historic cottonwood tree which dates back at least a century. Employés of the city yards yesterday began their task of cutting down the tree, around which many stories of Evanston's history have been written.

It was under this tree, which grows in the pavement between Fountain square and the police station, that William McKinley made a campaign speech and Col. Theodore Roosevelt addressed the populace. In the early days of the village the town meetings were held under the shade of the tree.

It was with sorrow that Justice of the Peace Samuel Harrison yesterday witnessed the trimming of its branches, preparatory to the final destruction.

"Why, I tore my first pair of long pants climbing up that tree fifty years ago," mused the justice. "I smoked my first cigar sitting under its shade. Ten businesses have occupied the property where that old tree stands, and now they are going to end it all.

"Maybe it's best, though, for Evanston has grown and perhaps there is no room on the busy street for sentiment."

Despite vigorous protests of Evanston's older citizens the civic authorities will not rescind the order to remove the tree.

KERNEL COOTIE—UNCLE MUST HAVE BEEN PARTIAL TO BROTHER BOB

GRAINS FIRM UP ON LIGHT SALES BY THE COUNTRY

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

Selling pressure which predominated in the grain markets on Monday, was not in evidence to any extent yesterday. Buying power, although not especially heavy, was strong enough to make higher prices after several small dips. The finish was at gains of 2¼@2¼c on wheat, 2@2¾c on corn, ½c lower to ¾c higher on oats, 2½@4½c up on rye, and 1¾@1¾c on barley.

With higher prices for cash wheat in all markets and with active buying of futures against export sales of 800,000 bu or more, futures moved up readily, the impression being that they exceeded that figure. Houses that led the buying the previous day were again active, while selling was of reduced volume. Lowest prices were made at the start, while the close on March was within ¼c of the top and on December only 1 to 1½c under the top figures.

While the British commission was reported out of the market as a buyer of wheat, there were intimations that it was bidding quietly.

Strong Market in Corn.

A heavy decrease in local stock of corn, combined with persistent dought in parts of Illinois, Indiana, Kansas and Nebraska and small receipts led to some reversal in local sentiment. Lowest prices were made early and the highest toward the last, the close being within a fraction of the top.

It was much easier to trace the buying than the selling. Strong commission houses were good buyers on every break. Around $1.48 for September and $1.25 for December offering increased considerably, but September led the advance.

Country offerings to arrive were not large, but there were numerous inquiries for bids, which was taken as indicating considerable business would be under way before long.

September Oats Weak.

Selling of more than 500,000 bu by Lewis and free selling by cash houses that were hedging gave September oats a heavy undertone and put it to a discount under December for the first time on the crop. Closing trades were ¼c under the December against ⅝c premium the previous day. The strength in corn led the pit element to buy the deferred deliveries.

At no time were rye prices below the previous day's finish. There was a lack of pressure from the start, and, with houses with seaboard connections on the buying side, an advance of 3@4½c was easily attained, the close being at the top.

An increase in lard stocks of 3,063,000 lb the past two weeks was larger than expected. This led to selling and created an easy feeling, as buying support was poor and prices had a small range.

DRY GOODS MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Gray cotton goods continued to ease today, the finer yarn goods being particularly weak. Cotton yarns were lower. A general opening of leading lines of men's wear has been deferred until after Labor day. A slightly better demand for dress silks and ribbons was reported.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Shipping sales of cash grain at Chicago Tuesday were 40,000 bu corn and 190,000 bu oats.

The continent was after wheat at the gulf, and around 800,000 bu were reported as sold, with Germany, Sweden, and Holland the buyers. One interest sold 400,000 bu. The British commission remains out of the market. Very little grain is being sold for eastern shipment, although New York bid 30c over December track there for No. 2 red or hard winter, August shipment.

At the gulf f. o. b. prices were $2.73 for August, $2.68 for September, and $2.66 for October loading. Country offerings were not large, with 14c over December bid for No. 2 hard for August shipment, track Chicago, or 2c higher than the previous day. There were bids of 22c over December for 30 day and 21c over for September shipment of No. 1 hard or red winter, track New Orleans or Galveston.

Premiums on cash wheat in the sample market were unchanged, with No. 1 red and hard winter mainly 18c over December. Springs were unchanged for choice and 1@3c lower for the poorer grades. Minneapolis advanced 5c. St. Louis was 2@4c, Kansas City 2@5c, and Omaha 2@3c higher. Local receipts were 102 cars winter, 12 cars spring, and 14 cars mixed.

Demand for cash corn was fair, with sample values unchanged to 1c higher than the previous day's close. No. 2 mixed finished around $1.5s and No. 2 yellow at $1.61@1.61½. Receipts 61 cars. Cash oats were steady to a shade higher early, but weakened later, only to rally toward the last, No. 3 white sold at 1@2c and No. 2 white at 3½@4c over September. Receipts 166 cars.

NEWS OF THE CROPS

N. B. Updike wired the Updike Grain Co. from Sidney, Neb.: "Traveled across the entire state of Nebraska. They need rain everywhere. Can see no signs of movement of any grain from the farm. Elevators about cleaned up. Very little demand for empty box cars for grain loading. Farmers feel safe in holding wheat for $2.50 per bu at least, regardless of the advance in freight rates. There will be little corn sold at least until after general rain."

Burlington railroad's weekly crop report said harvesting of wheat and oats was practically finished. In Illinois wheat is averaging 15@25 bu, and oats 30@55 bu. Oats in Iowa average 50 bu per acre, and in Missouri 33 bu. Wheat in Nebraska is averaging 22.7 bu.

Reports to the Cargill Commission company of Minneapolis showed irregular yields of wheat and oats in the northwestern states.

OF
Plan and Agreement of Readjustment
OF

Maxwell Motor Company, Inc.

AND OF

Chalmers Motor Corporation

Dated August 30, 1919

To the Holders of Certificates of Deposit issued under the above mentioned Plan and Agreement for:

MAXWELL MOTOR COMPANY, INC.:

First Preferred Stock;
Second Preferred Stock; and
Common Stock; and Stock Trust Certificates issued by Guaranty Trust Company of New York, as agent for Voting Trustees, for said First Preferred, Second Preferred, and Common Stock.

CHALMERS MOTOR COMPANY:

CHALMERS MOTOR CORPORATION:
Stock Certificates for Preferred Stock; and

Existing conditions in the financial and business world have made it impracticable to declare operative or to carry out the above mentioned Plan and Agreement of Readjustment in its present form. The Committee has been in conference with financial and business interests as well as with creditors of Maxwell Motor Company, Inc., regarding plans for the supply of new money urgently required for the readjustment or reorganization of the Maxwell and Chalmers Companies, and for the management of their respective properties. The Committee believes that in the near future a modified plan, the general features of which have already received the approval of the interests consulted, may be formulated for the approval of certificate holders and creditors. This, however, cannot be done in time to prevent the present Plan and Agreement of Readjustment, in accordance with its terms, from becoming inoperative unless modified as hereinafter stated. The Committee has accordingly determined to modify the Plan and Agreement of Readjustment by striking out from article or paragraph 7 of the Readjustment Agreement the words "the failure to declare operative the Plan or any modified plan within one year after the date of this Agreement shall be conclusively deemed an abandonment of the Plan and of this Agreement and of any modified plan or modified or supplemental agreement."

A statement of the foregoing modification of the Plan and Agreement has been filed with the Depositary, Central Union Trust Company of New York. Holders of certificates of deposit issued under the Plan and Agreement of Readjustment may at any time on or before August 31, 1920, upon surrender of their respective certificates of deposit, properly endorsed in blank for transfer, to the Depositary, Central Union Trust Company of New York, 80 Broadway, New York City, and upon payment of such taxes as may be payable upon the transfer and delivery of the securities withdrawn, withdraw from the Plan and Agreement of Readjustment, and thereupon will be entitled to receive the deposited securities represented by the certificates of deposit so surrendered.

Every Depositor not so surrendering and withdrawing on or before August 31, 1920, will be deemed to have assented to the above mentioned modification and whether or not otherwise objecting will be bound thereby as fully and effectively as if he had actually assented thereto. Depositors who do not so withdraw will have the right, upon announcement of the proposed modified plan, to signify their approval thereof or, if they decline to approve the same, to withdraw their deposited securities.

The Two Largest Mail Order Houses in the World

Selling $400,000,000 of Goods a Year By Mail

BORN in Chicago 1872—the first establishment selling merchandise direct to the consumer through the mails by means of illustrated catalogues.

Today Chicago leads all other cities in the world in the amount of business carried on by mail order houses.

It is estimated that 60% of the mail order business of the country is transacted by Chicago institutions—a large part by the two biggest mail order houses in the world, which are located here.

A million and a half people shop in Chicago by mail during a busy week. The yearly sales in these houses total over $400,000,000, all of which is originated through catalogues. The goods sold range from a paper of pins to a portable house.

The merchandising field of these "by mail" stores is limited only by the transportation facilities which bring the customer and seller together. Their business extends to every known quarter of the globe and is growing greater and greater each year.

The mail order industry is a monument to Chicago's unprecedented commercial progress.

Chicago, the Wonder City—The commercial progress of Chicago is one of the marvels of the century. In common with other financial institutions, the growth of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank is largely dependent on the growth of Chicago. And the growth of Chicago rests on the faith and vision of its citizens. In a series of advertisements, of which this is the Seventh, we are trying to set forth a few of the achievements of this great city. Chicago will continue to contribute to the benefit of its citizens in proportion to their faith in its future.

These bonds are secured by closed mortgage on 55,122 acres of producing farm lands, representing the Company's holdings located in Sutter County, California, about 22 miles north of the City of Sacramento.

The total authorized issue of $6,000,000 bonds represents a lien against lands appraised at a valuation of approximately $17,000,000. The only existing assessment against the mortgaged lands amounts to approximately $3,850,000. This has been funded into a bond issue, none of the bonds maturing prior to January 1, 1930. Future similar assessments may likewise be funded into bonds maturing over a period of 20 years and are, therefore, not burdensome.

PLENTY OF FUNDS TO MOVE CROPS, MITCHELL SAYS

The crops of the United States will be moved to market in the autumn and winter without any excessive strain of credit, according to John J. Mitchell, chairman of the Illinois Merchants Trust banking group.

"Moving of the crops will not require an unusual amount of money this year," Mr. Mitchell said. "It was banking opinion in some quarters several months ago that there was likely to be an extremely tight money situation in the autumn, so large preparations were begun. But now it appears preparations already made will be ample.

Ample Funds for Needs.

"Several of the large grain concerns have arranged for larger credit than they probably will need, but such excess funds will promptly return to the banks to be utilized.

"In my opinion there will continue to be a strong demand for money through the autumn and winter, but there will be plenty of funds for crop moving and all other legitimate purposes. It is not likely there will be a concentrated grain movement early this year."

Ætna Explosives Plans.

The committee of directors of the Aetna Explosives company, which has under consideration the plan for the distribution of its assets and the retirement of an amount of the common stock, has agreed on all details and will make an announcement soon. It is believed the plan to declare a large dividend on the common shares has been abandoned. It is probable a plan calling for the retirement of 25 per cent of the outstanding common stock will be substituted. In other words, each stockholder may be offered the privilege of selling to the company 25 per cent of his holdings at $1 a share.

On July 30 there were 545,114 shares of common stock outstanding. The plan to retire 25 per cent, or 136,278 shares, will require $1,635,336. Working capital on June 30 was about $7,700,000, which is said to be in excess of the needs of the company.

Penn Seaboard Steel.

J. S. M.—The Penn Seaboard Steel corporation reported earnings of $157,492 in 1919 before allowance for depreciation. This figured out at $1.26 a share on the par stock outstanding as of Jan. 1. Since then some new stock has been issued. There are said to be 173,- shares now. No dividends paid since early last year. Only meager information is available.

Atlantic Gulf and West Indies.

L. G. R.—The Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies company is subject to violent fluctuations of earnings. In 1919 it earned 1 per cent on its $14,963,400 of common stock, compared with 13½ in 1918, and 32 in 1917. This stock, of course, fluctuates in the market as earnings vary and is decidedly speculative.

Brief Answers.

J. J., Bowen, Ill.—The Ajax Rubber company has only $10,000,000 of stock. The June 30 balance sheet was published correctly, the extra $820,000 being premium on stock issued. Earnings in the first half of 1920 were at the rate of 15¼ per cent a year.

H. C.—The Continental Motors corporation officials announced recently that the report for the year ending Oct. 31 next will show a substantial increase in earnings over last year. No figures given.

GOING UP

The ground we walk on, the house we live in, the clothes we wear and the food we eat, have all gone up in price. On the other hand, the prices of high grade bonds have gone to low levels that will not likely prevail again for the next fifty years.

The logical procedure is to buy bonds now, for as commodities decline in price, good securities will appreciate in value.

We recommend and offer West Penn Power Company First Mortgage 7% Gold Bonds, due March, 1, 1946, to yield 7½%. Circular sent on request.

The New York Times.

New York, Aug. 17.—[Special.]—The movement of stocks today showed once again that the Polish situation was more remote as a market influence than domestic business and credit problems and uncertainties over the foreign trade outlook. In the face of the most encouraging news that so far had arrived from the fighting lines about Warsaw, the industrial issues lost ground, some declines running as much as 3 to 5 points.

The market acted as though professional bears were again hitting spots which reacted promptly under pressure the week before last, but there were also evidences of liquidation by holders of shares on margin.

Money Shows Tension.

The persistent decline of several highly speculative stocks suggested fresh calling of loans and a rise of the demand loan rate from 7 to 8 per cent in the afternoon told of more tension in the money market than had been seen for two weeks. Reduction of bank loans through the liquidation of goods has made some progress in commercial fields since May 1, but the slack has been taken up at once in other directions, and the heaviest burden of autumn demand is yet to be met.

Inquiries in the textile field and in some lines of steel manufacturing show a puzzling situation. Clothing seems to be moving from retailers' stores on a scale not quite as large as in July, while at the same time wholesale quotations remains rather firmly fixed on the spring basis.

Autos Lower by Rumor Only.

In the automobile trade, taking one in which steel consumption is important, price reductions continue merely in the state of rumor, and the impression prevails in well informed quarters that costs will not permit any material concession for some time.

Until the crops are taken care of, there seems small hope of a credit easement. At the same time preparations by France to send between $20,000,000 and $50,000,000 gold before Oct. 15, when the Anglo-French loan falls due, promise a substantial accretion to the country's credit base.

DEL PRADO HOTEL GETS NEW LEASE AT $28,000 YEAR

Trustees of the estate of L. E. Ingalls of Joliet were authorized yesterday to lease the Del Prado hotel, Fifty-ninth street and Blackstone avenue, for ten years at $28,000 a year to the Del Prado Hotel company, holders of a lease that expires in May.

Power to sign the lease was granted to the trustees by Judge Dibell of Joliet. George Woodruff, one of the trustees, now in France, had left his permission for the transaction.

Ingalls, who was a race track enthusiast, obtained a ninety-nine year lease on the Del Prado site nearly half a century ago. The lease renewal is one step being taken in an attempt to realize $200,000 for the estate, which without the incumbrances is said to have been valued at more than a million at the time of Mr. Ingalls' death in 1913.

Company Buys Home.

Ownership of the seven story building at 445 Plymouth court, occupied by the American Blue Print Paper company, has been purchased by the company for its own home. The building was sold by the estate of Clara H. Fleming for an indicated $80,000, to be paid in installments of $1,000 annually and the site has been leased for ninety-nine years for an indicated total of $594,000, payable at $6,000 a year.

The lessees agree to pay all taxes on the property. Plans for improvements totaling more than $3,000 have been made by the company.

The lessors for the estate are Merle Smith, New York, and Arthur H. Fleming, Pasadena, Cal., individually, and Arthur H. Fleming, Clarence S. Fleming, and Augustus C. Stellwagen as trustees.

Gundlack Is Buyer.

Ernest T. Gundlach, president of the Gundlach Advertising agency, has purchased a half interest in the two story fireproof structure at 2929-37 South Wabash avenue for an indicated $84,000, subject to $50,000. As part payment he has given the seller, Benjamin Lowenmeyer, the property at 1234 South Wabash avenue, valued at $45,000 and subject to $35,000. The latter is improved with an old building. The former property is occupied by R. C. Cook, distributor of Velie and Fiat automobiles.

Building Permits

Nine building permits were issued yesterday. Those of $10,000 or over:
8015-17 Exchange avenue, 1 story brick; Joel Norman, owner; Erickson & Johns Co., mas. and carp. $14,000
2260 S. Racine-av., 1 story brick; People's Gas Light & Coke Co., owner; Robert Black Co., mas. and carp. 10,000

Safeguarding the Investor

NUMBER ONE OF A SERIES

THERE is an annual loss in the United States of hundreds of millions of dollars which are put into so-called investments pictured in glowing terms and sold to the credulous by unscrupulous promoters.

Many millions of dollars are also lost through the exercise of bad judgment involving undue risks. The good faith of the management and promoters may be the best, but unfortunately that will not avoid the consequences of basic infirmities.

With the tremendous increase which has occurred in the number of investors caused by the wide influence of the 'Liberty Loan campaigns, it is unfortunate that so many of those who have just begun to learn the wisdom of saving and investing should risk losses through fraudulent promotions or unwise speculation.

Recognizing this, the governments of many states have sought by Blue Sky Laws to protect investors from get-rich-quick promoters. Similar Federal Laws are also in the making, but even these legal safeguards, helpful as they are, do not guarantee the safety desired by every discriminating investor as a primary consideration.

In our opinion, the most important step toward achieving the proper protection in the matter of investments, is the selection as an adviser of some investment banking house of high standing whose experience and reputation is an assurance of ability, integrity and responsibility.

In a series of brief advertisements, we will endeavor to point out a number of important services which are rendered by the conservative investment banking houses of America. We hope also to suggest a few precautions to the less experienced investors which may assist them to determine the safest and most profitable employment of their funds.

Receipts of hogs were estimated early at 20,000 and later at 25,000. After starting in 10c higher, the market weakened, with the early advance lost and 14,000 estimated left in the pens. Part of a load sold early at $16.15, but equally as good went later at $16.00. Armour's and the Swift droves cost $14.75 to $14.80.

The general average price of hogs was the same as Monday, $15.05, standing 20c higher than the previous Tuesday and $3.45 lower than a year ago. Speculators were the principal buyers at the start yesterday, while practically all the large packers purchased indifferently all day.

Trade in cattle was slower than usual, with prices largely 25c lower. Extreme late bids were 50c lower on poorer offerings. Fancy yearlings sold at $17.25 and heavy beeves reached $17.10. Sheep sold steady and lambs strong to 25c higher, with best westerns at $13.35.

Seven western markets received 39,000 cattle, 55,000 hogs and 65,000 sheep, against 37,000 cattle, 68,000 hogs and 62,000 sheep a week ago and 68,000 cattle, 42,000 hogs, and 99,000 sheep a year ago.

Receipts for today are estimated at 8,000 cattle, 17,000 hogs, and 27,000 sheep, against 9,847 cattle, 9,897 hogs and 26,331 sheep at Chicago the corresponding Wednesday a year ago.

RAILROAD NOTES

Sixty miles of loaded coal cars are choking the roads between Brunswick and Curtis bay terminals, Baltimore, according to President M. C. Byers of the Western Maryland railroad, who added that the congestion, due to failure of ship owners to load the coal and to laxity in the issuance of coal permits, was the worst he has ever known.

The Wisconsin railroad commission has sanctioned the 35 per cent increase in freight rates, but has denied any jurisdiction in passenger fare rates.

Judge W. R. Smith, general counsel for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé, has asked the Kansas Supreme court to advance from Sept. 14 to Aug. 23 the date of the hearing to determine whether the Kansas 2 cent rate is effective, despite the increase allowed by the interstate commerce commission that a decision may be reached before the date set for the new rates to become effective.

The interstate commerce commission has approved a $15,000 note issue by the Norfolk and Portsmouth Belt line of Virginia. The issue bears 6 per cent interest.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Grain markets are extremely sensitive to liberal selling or buying, and values respond readily at times. Country holders are not selling grains in large volume and the after harvest movement of wheat especially has been a great disappointment at all markets. Conditions with the farmers have changed and, with their various organizations, they are not in the same position as prior to the war. They do most of their selling on bulges, and shut off on the breaks.

Corn stocks in Chicago decreased 891,000 bu last week, and are down to 1,326,000 bu. Contract stocks are down to 160,000 bu, and 36,000 bu have been canceled for shipment since they were made up, with more to be taken out this week. This makes shorts in September corn nervous, and they were the best buyers yesterday, one large local operator leading. At $1.48 for September and $1.25 for December there was good selling by commission houses for profits.

Trading in wheat futures will open in Winnipeg today. October and December are to be traded in. It is expected October will start around $2.75 to $2.80. Contract grades deliverable are: No. 1 northern at contract price. No. 2 northern 3c under, No. 3 northern 7c under. President John E. Botherel of the Winnipeg exchange wired F. S. Lewis & Co.: "This October wheat is a great place for your exporters to buy as hedge against future sales."

"The Balkan states, especially Roumania, will have large quantities of corn and barley for export," writes the Belgian correspondent of the Rosenbaum Review. "Around 1,500,000 tons of old corn remain for export. The barley crop is good and latest estimates give 300,000 tons for export."

A Board of Trade membership sold yesterday for $10,250 net to the buyer and one Monday at $10,000 net to the buyer. New members elected by the directors yesterday were Thomas Gadsden, secretary of the Illinois Cold Storage company; Harry L. Arnold, Gary, Ind., and Silas H. Smith, with the J. Rosenbaum Grain company, Chicago.

FLOUR NOW CHEAPER

The Northwestern Miller's weekly review of the flour trade says:

"The flour market has remained lifeless, as buyers have refused to follow the slight advance in flour prices, due to the strength of cash wheat. Even with these advances flour is now cheaper than at any time since last November, with the exception of a few days late in July. The revival of trade in wheat futures is apparently holding flour prices down, to the benefit of the public but to the indignation of the farmer.

"The mill feed market is more active, owing to scarcity of supplies and the desire of buyers to get shipments before freight rates go up.

"The flour output has materially improved in the last week, the Kansas and Oklahoma hard winter wheat mills reporting an output representing 63 per cent of capacity, the Ohio valley soft winter wheat mills 47½, and the spring wheat mills 45."

Not One Claim

A Title Guarantee Policy is MORE than Insurance. In case of loss the Company not only pays the Loss, but also Defends the title at its Own Expense, even if there be no loss.

The fact that over 400,000 guarantee policies have been issued and NOT ONE suit or unadjusted claim against the Company based upon a guarantee policy is now pending, is CONCLUSIVE PROOF that this agreement is LIBERALLY construed and FAITHFULLY kept.

A Bank's Opportunity Made Yours

Heretofore the sale of Continental Guaranty Collateral Trust Gold Notes has been confined to Banks and Trust Companies. Because of their high yield, (now 9% and 9½%) and exceptional security, together with their self liquidating feature, financial institutions have freely bought these short term obligations. Their purchases have aggregated over $97,000,000 in the past five years.

To individuals or corporations desiring to invest for a year or two these notes will prove especially attractive.

Cause?????

The cause of the acute shortage of homes and the continuous increase of your rent is due to the fact that very few homes were built during the war, and even less since the armistice. But the population of Chicago has greatly increased, and will no doubt continue to increase. These facts alone prove that there can be no reduction of rents as long as the shortage exists, and it is up to you and a great many others to figure on building your own home.

We have a very liberal plan that enables you to get Your Own Home at a monthly basis no greater than the rent you are now paying. The neighborhood is all that you could ask for. The transportation—L and surface lines—stores, schools, churches, and shows close by.
